

-in school I was in speech therapy, once that was addressed I was bumped up to honors classes, and stayed

Clicking in throat, difficulty swallowing at times. Right lung has a spot when I breathe that is still frozen. So when I try to talk a sentence sometimes I can't carry through the voice inflections, and I run out of breath mid sentence. I have to think ahead about how I'm going to try to speak in shorter sentences, and whatever words I can pronounce that day. It takes longer for the signals in my brain to make it to my mouth, jaw, nose, and eyes, so it can be hard to make the right facial expressions to communicate properly. I experience aphasia. I am limited in the amount of expression available to me. If I try to be expressive like I used to, then It feels like a claw is around my mouth, and in my ear, throat. It feels like tiny sharp razor blades in the skin and tissues that was infected as a crusty material was left that is very painful and takes having to physical stretch, move and bend to remove.

Broken Ankle

Noticed the swelling in my ankles and how it connected to my migraines

Would drive to sons fathers house and go int ot eh bathtub and shake, unable to move or take care of our child.

I'm having trouble forming thoughts, getting words to come together to speak clearly, fatigue is much more intense, thinking process slowed very much, I was dizzy and weak.
