

NOTE: The partnerships team would love to be involved in the planning of your webinar if we aren't already and can even set up a registration page for you (example). Click here to set up a time to discuss.

Subject: You're Invited: Learn about a new way to engage [UNIVERSITY] students

Dear alumni,

[UNIVERSITY] is excited to announce a new way for you to connect with highly-motivated students and recent grads from your alma mater. Micro-Internships are short-term, paid professional projects designed to serve as a bridge to future employment opportunities.

[UNIVERSITY] has partnered with Parker Dewey to connect our students/grads with these opportunities. Please join us and representatives from Parker Dewey on [day, date, and time], to hear:

- an overview on how Micro-Internships work,
- examples of the types of projects students can complete, and
- how these short-term projects create equitable access to professional careers in our community.

Whether you're in need of on-demand project support, looking for a scalable win-win to connect with students from your alma mater, or looking for ways to get work done with an ever-growing to-do list, Micro-Internships are a valuable tool. This demo and walkthrough will show how this scalable concept supports your organization as well as students and grads from your alma mater.

Click here if you're ready to post a Micro-Internships now [INSERT UNIVERSITY LANDING PAGE] and here to register for the webinar and learn more: [INSERT REGISTRATION LINK]

Sincerely,

[Sending Department Info]