

Galeo's wittle adventure

The blue fish woke up to nothing but the blue sky blanketing above him. He gets up to stretch before slipping off his lily pad and swimming to shore to look for some food. The sun is still rising from the east and won't be noon for a while yet. Galeo yawns and rolls around in the early morning grass to feel the dew along his side and looks in front of him. He spots some bushes with berries that could be eaten and he gets up and quickly scampers towards them. Galeo reaching his head up to try and bite a couple bushes to get the berries to fall down. A couple found on his head and he shakes them off and leans down to bite into one of berries and smiles in content as the juicy flavor of the berry soaks his mouth. The blue fish continues to eat a couple more berries before laying back down on his side, satisfied with his breakfast. Galeo continues to lay down for a little while before getting back up and looks back over to his pond. Galeo thinks with his little thoughts he has before bolting over to the water and jumps face first in.

He gets hit with a splash of cool water hugging his body. The fish opens their eyes and looks around in the currently darker pond to explore. There isn't too much to look at. There's a few rocks and plants, maybe a few small fish. Galeo just really enjoys the feel for the water and how it feels around him. He does a few swirls and does a couple of scircles in the water before jumping up and back into the water. This goes on for a while before Galeo gets a bit bored. With that, Galeo swims back to shore and goes to look for tall grass to roll around in. Galeo then sees some grass with a lot of bugs in it and jumps into the grass. The blue fish walks around in the grass exploring the new environment and sees a couple ladybugs and other insects. He leans over and falls to his side and rolls around in the grass. He makes a couple of happy fish noises as he is very much enjoying the feel of the grass.

"Galeo!" Someone cries from a distance but it is a very familiar cry.

Galeo's head pops up and looks in the direction of the voice and sees a green bikkudo looking around.

Galeo perks and runs over to them.

"Oh there you are!" The green bikkudo known as Baya smiles in Galeo's direction, "Would you like to join me to find some materials for my badges and then maybe after share some lunch?"

Galeo smiles and wags his tail and bounces to confirm that's what he wants to do.

Baya smiles and starts to lead the way towards the forest to scout for specific materials. The blue fish looks up at the trees and the sun at this time of the day can leak through and leave sun spots on his and his friend's body. The weather felt exceptionally nice today.

"Hm, the material I need should be here..." Baya mutters aloud while looking around the base of a tree. The green bikkudo looks over to Galeo for a second to see him spaces out and looking among the trees. "Hey Galeo can you come over here for a second?"

Galeo's darts into Baya's direction after hearing the question and waddles over to her.

"I'm trying to find more wood like this," as she says this, she points to softer wood of the tree. "It'll help with a certain part of a badge I'm trying to make but I'd like some more."

Galeo smiles and nods and goes to scamper into the direction of more trees like this one. The blue fish finds one and tries to peel off some of the wood and it doesn't come off until he moves to the other side where it falls off a bit easier. Pleased with what he got he picks it up in his mouth and runs over to Baya and shakes his tail while handing the wood to her.

"Thank you Galeo, you're a real help!" Baya smiles and pets Galeo's head. "I think maybe I should just pick a couple more of these flowers before we head back."

Galeo smiles in content knowing that he's helping. Galeo goes to stand by Baya again and offers to hold a couple flowers which Baya happily offers. Galeo grabs onto the flowers and follows Baya as she heads back towards the area they met up in. / Galeo happily bounces along side her as they both pass through the trees into the clearing. Not too far away is her treehouse and the two walk up to it and start to climb up with their resources.

"Well that should be everything I need for now. I'll be able to finish these badges tonight, thanks again Galeo, you make this process a lot easier." Baya smiles and pats Galeo on the head again. "You can stay over if you want and maybe now we can have some lunch together. I have this fruit I got from my girlfriend, I'm sure she'd love for me to share it with you!"

Galeo smiles and reaches to grab the piece of the fruit and sits down in a comfortable spot to eat with Baya. This was a very productive day for both of them.
