

(Start after Kugi wakes up)

Kugi:

Alright, today's the day.

Kugi:

Time to explore beyond the valley.

Kugi:

Better meet up with my friend and get this show on the road.

(Fruit provider)

Kugi:

Morning Daisy.

Daisy:

And to you as well Kugi.

Daisy:

Heard you're going on a scouting trip, is that true?

Kugi:

Yep.

Daisy:

That sounds like an adventure.

Kugi:

I wouldn't call it that.

Kugi:

We're only going searching for area to clean up or repurpose and report back here.

Kugi:

All part of a plan to expand the valley and 'Repair the Earth' as they call it.

Kugi:

Nothing more than sightseeing.

Daisy:

Still, it is an honour to be part of the cause.

Daisy:

All to Repair the Earth.

Daisy:

If you're going out, do you need freshly organic fruit?

Kugi:

Thanks, but I'm not hungry and I already packed.

Dasiy:

Alright have a safe trip.

(Overhearing a passing)

Olly:

I'm so sorry to hear that.

Murshal:

Yeah, I found him motionless, the Sunbulb was out old.

Murshal:

Might have short circuited in the middle of the night.

Murshal:

At least he passed peacefully in his sleep

Olly:

Still, Buford did a lot for the community.

Olly:

I'll be sure to attend his Compost Funeral.

Murshal:

He would have wanted that, a great helper for nature till the end.

Murshal:

Now he can be one with nature.

Kugi:

Dang, Buford powered out? He was a nice guy.

Kugi:

Don't want to end up like him.

Kugi:

Good thing I packed spare Sunbulbs for this trip.

(Community meetup)

Joh:

Morning to the great community of the Unsettling Valley.

Ju:

For today's reminder, let me remind you of what happened before, from a time before ours.

Joh:

Back in the day, the Earth's climate was on the brink of disaster.

Joh:

Back then, life was a lot different, as the world was consumed by...

Joh:

Capitalism.

Joh:

Back then, the aiders of Capitalism did not care for the desperate.

Joh:

Back then, the desperate struggle to eat, sleep and breathe.

Joh:

The troubling actions of the aiders damaged our Earth.

Joh:

Enough for Nature to punish us to the brink of extinction.

Joh:

And yet, we are still here. why?

Joh:

Because we are better.

Joh:

Better than destructive aiders of capitalism. Who fade away in the Dark.

Joh:

Leaving the desperate to move on and work together to Repair the Earth.

Joh:

We are the descendants of the desperate, thriving in the light.

Joh:

So long as the sun burns to this day, we have alternative clean and prosperous energy.

Joh:

So long as we stay in the light, we will never see the dark.

Joh:

A promise we all made, together, one day at a time.

Joh:

And eventually, maybe not in our lifetime, but in the next many generations.

Joh:

Earth will be restored.

Joh:

Thank you for all who listen.

(Assigner reminder)

Gaia:

Good morning Kugi. Happy to see you up and early.

Kugi:

Yeah, don't want to mess up with my task.

I can finally get out of this dump and find my calling.

Gaia:

Figured, it explains why you volunteered so quickly.

Gaia:

Look, I know that you... weirdly don't feel... easy in the community.

Gaia:

But you know why we all take part to repair the Earth.

Kugi:

Yeah, so our children's children great grandchildren can stop having solar panels on their heads.

Gaia:

It's more than that, and you know this.

Gaia:

Earth is our home, our planet. And we damaged it long ago.

Gaia:

Our ancestors caused so much pain, so it's up to us to fix their mistakes.

Gaia:

Remember that when you are out there.

Gaia:

Perhaps your calling is to find a reason for our cause.

Kugi:

Yeah, whatever.

Kugi:

Need to go, need to meet up with your daughter.

Gaia:

Good luck, and please...

Gaia:

Keep yourself and Natlie safe.

(Child asking about the solar panels)

Gary:

Mommy! Why do we have these on our heads?

Stacy:

Because they keep us happy and healthy, away from the dark.

Gary:

Why?

Stacy:

Uh...

Stacy:

Well, you see, our Solar Panels gets power by the light, from the Sun.

Gary:

Why?

Stacy:

Because the sun is extremely hot and radiate heat and energy.

Gary:

Why?

Stacy:

Because... uh...

Stacy:

Okay, you got me there.

Stacy:

Best to ask this question to your teacher.

Gary:

Why?

Stacy:

Because she's knows a lot about the sun.

Gary:

Why?

Stacy:

Uh...

(End – Meeting up with friend)

Nattie:

Kugi! About time you show up.

Kugi:

Thought I would be late?

Nattie:

...

Nattie:

Kinda.

Nattie:

You were late for a lot of things.

Nattie:

Our past tasks, community meetings, my sprouting party.

Nattie:

Generally surprised you could keep up with your Sunbulb hours.

Kugi:

Well, this one is different.

Kugi:

Being honest, it would be great to get out of here for once.

Nattie:

Of course you say something like that.

Kugi:

Then how about we get a move on, while sunlight is still up.

Nattie:

Okay, if it makes you happy.