Our small team consists of 4 people right now, and here's a bit about us!

Mark (co-founder / CEO) previously created machine learning magic at Pinterest and C3.ai. He is committed to improving the present through poverty alleviation programs and changing our future by supporting environmental justice and international LGBTQ+ rights.

Tina (co-founder / COO) previously worked as a mobile engineer at Snapchat, where she saw the company grow from 35 people to 2500+. She is passionate about reducing inequalities of opportunity, including access to education, women's rights, and poverty relief.

Rahul (co-founder / Head of Product) previously worked as a backend engineer at Nuna, managing data for Medicaid/Medicare. He supports local nonprofits making a tangible difference in the community, especially in the areas of housing, homelessness, and the arts, and larger nonprofits that are tightly focused with research-backed interventions on poverty, justice, and the environment.

Omar (co-founder) previously worked up and down the stack at Clever, an education startup. He supports local activism and research to make cities more livable, and cost-efficient interventions to improve the welfare of impoverished peoples wherever they may live.
