How does iPad help improve the effectiveness…

Another unique aspect of the iPad is the built in software that it comes with; the fact that it can turn into a recording studio or a mixing software with GarageBand or you can record and edit high-definition video in Imovie, or just throw together video ideas and clips or there's a word processor on there. All this software is built in and is really quite uniquely powerful in what children are able to accomplish on a device. We find that just really useful.
