Sue – Travis forwarded your inquiry to me. Our two sources for the post were the Breitbart.com story which ran July 10, and the FRC report. The Breitbart.com story ran the day before our post. Neither that story, nor the FRC report, reference any change in policy.

Thank you. I want to make sure – Y'all did not do any checking to see whether such policies were still in place in 2013? The Breitbart story and the FRC report just say that on one day in 2011 the congressman determined this was happening.

We believe stories published in news media outlets are appropriately fact-checked. We ran the post based on a story we saw the day before and believed the information to be current.
