

The Department of Statistics at the University of Florida will host the North Florida Regional Electronic Conference on Teaching Statistics (Regional eCOTS)

When: June 14th, 2024, from 10am – 4pm

Where: The UF Informatics Institute (next to Marston Science Library, 432 Newell Dr).

eCOTS is organized by the Consortium for the Advancement of Undergraduate Statistics Education (CAUSE). This event is an opportunity available to all interested in teaching statistics. Follow the link eCOTS 24 to register for both eCOTS and the North Florida Regional conference.

Theme: What's Next? Moving Forward
The North Florida Regional will focus on the "Past, Present, and Future of Statistics/Data Science" conference track.

Time	Activity
9:45-10am	Arrive
10:00 am	Welcome and Introductions
10:15 am	"The Past" – Incorporating the rich history of statistics into the curriculum.
11:00 am	Break
11:15 am	"The Present" – Developing meaningful experiential learning activities in Statistics and Data Science
12:00pm	Lunch
1:00pm	Speaker: Megan Mocko – Developing AI statements for your syllabus
1:45pm	Discussion Topic 1 – "The Future" for teaching statistics in North Florida
2:15pm	Discussion Topic 2 – "The Future" developing a statistics community
2:45	Break
3:00pm	Featured Speaker: Dr Ji-Hyun Lee, President -elect of the American Statistical Association , https://lee.biostat.ufl.edu/
3:50pm-4pm	Reflections, Discussions, and Closing

Tentative Schedule of Events