65-WEEK STUDY SCHEDULE

August 3, 2026 - October 30, 2027

Starting diagnostic	151
Target	High 170s / 180
Weekly commitment	2 hours Monday-Friday; 3 hours Saturday
Total planned time	Approximately 845 hours

Core resources

The Loophole in LSAT Logical Reasoning | The LSAT Trainer | PowerScore LR and RC Bibles
LawHub Advantage official PrepTests | 7Sage drills, analytics, and explanations

Accuracy first. Speed second. Review always.

How to Use This Schedule

The central rule

Do not complete an assignment merely to check it off. A question is not finished until you can explain the stimulus or passage, predict the task, justify the correct answer, reject the tempting wrong answers, and state what you will do differently next time.

Weekly rhythm

- Monday-Friday: exactly 2 hours each night. Each assignment includes learning, official practice, Blind Review, and journal work.
- Saturday: 3 hours. Most Saturdays combine cumulative practice, timed work, review, and a weekly audit.
- Official PrepTest Saturdays: four 35-minute sections, the official break, and immediate score/observation recording.
- Sunday: completely off. Rest is part of the plan, not a failure to study.

Accuracy and timing progression

- 1. Untimed with complete written reasoning
- 2. Untimed with efficient reading and fewer unnecessary rereads
- 3. Time tracked without a hard cutoff
- 4. 40-minute sections
- 5. Official 35-minute sections
- 6. Back-to-back sections
- 7. Four-section LawHub simulations

When to slow down

- Repeat a week when untimed accuracy remains below about 80%, the same conceptual error appears repeatedly, or you cannot explain why the four wrong choices fail.
- Do not add extra PrepTests after a disappointing score. The correct response to a low score is deeper review, not more testing.

About the 180 goal

A 151-to-high-170s or 180 increase is exceptionally ambitious. This schedule gives the goal a serious structure, but no score is guaranteed. Use recent medians, raw misses, and recurring error patterns - not one unusually high or low test - to judge readiness.

Resource Map

RESOURCE	PRIMARY JOB	HOW IT APPEARS IN THE SCHEDULE
The Loophole	Primary LR reasoning method	Translation Drills, stimulus comprehension, CLIR-style analysis, loopholes, and answer-family recognition.
The LSAT Trainer	Cross-section framework	Argument structure, question families, RC reading process, timing, and strategy integration.
PowerScore LR Bible	Detailed LR reference	Question-type lessons, conditional reasoning, causation, formal logic, and targeted remediation.
PowerScore RC Bible	Detailed RC reference	Passage structure, viewpoints, tone, comparative reading, and question-type methods.
PowerScore Logic Games Bible	Limited formal-logic reference	Use only selected sufficient/necessary, contrapositive, and diagramming material. Logic Games are not assigned.
7Sage	Drilling and analytics	Difficulty-controlled sets, Blind Review, explanations, section practice, and error analytics.
LawHub Advantage	Official testing environment	Untouched official sections and all 26 scheduled full PrepTests.
Wrong-answer journal	Personal error curriculum	Tracks what happened, why it happened, and the exact action that prevents recurrence.

Protect untouched official material

- Pool A - Drilling: older tests used for individual questions and passage sets.
- Pool B - Section practice: tests used for complete timed LR and RC sections.
- Pool C - Full-test-only: 26 untouched tests reserved for the dates in this schedule.
- Reserve the newest 12 untouched tests for August-October 2027. Exclude every reserved test from 7Sage drills.

Session Templates

Standard weekday - 2 hours

TIME	PURPOSE
10-20 min	Warm-up, spaced journal review, or redo of prior misses
35-60 min	Assigned lesson, official drill, or timed section
30-55 min	Blind Review before viewing explanations
10-25 min	Explanation review, journal entry, and one actionable rule

Standard Saturday - 3 hours

- 75 minutes cumulative accuracy work; 15-minute break; 45 minutes timed application; 45 minutes Blind Review; 20 minutes journal; 20 minutes weekly audit.

Official PrepTest Saturday - 3 hours

- 10 minutes setup and warm-up; 150 minutes for four 35-minute sections and the official break; 20 minutes to record score, timing, confidence flags, and immediate observations.

Blind Review rule

- Before checking answers, revisit every flagged, guessed, slow, or low-confidence question without time pressure. Write a final answer and reasoning. Only then compare with the answer key and explanations.

Monthly audit

- On the last study week of every month, record timed LR and RC averages, PrepTest median, Blind Review gap, unfinished questions, three most common errors, and the next month's single highest-priority skill.

Use medians, not peaks

Track both the scaled score and the raw pattern of misses. Your five-test median and recurring errors are better readiness indicators than one unusually high or low score.

Readiness standard

For a high-170s target, prioritize a stable recent median, very low raw misses, a small timed-to-Blind-Review gap, and the disappearance of recurring conceptual errors. One isolated peak score is not enough.

One-Page Final Strategy Sheet

Logical Reasoning process

1. Identify the conclusion and evidence. 2. State the gap or task. 3. Predict what the correct answer must do. 4. Eliminate answers for scope, strength, relevance, or logic. 5. Skip and return when the process stalls.

Reading Comprehension process

1. Track paragraph purpose and viewpoints. 2. State the main point, structure, and author attitude. 3. Return to the text for proof. 4. Match answer strength to passage support. 5. Protect passage pacing.

Timing rules

Write your personal checkpoints for LR and RC. Decide in advance when to skip, when to return, and what counts as an unproductive reread.

My five recurring traps

List the five errors most likely to cost points and the exact prevention behavior for each.

Test-day reminders

Sleep, food, permitted materials, room setup, break plan, warm-up, self-talk, and what to do after one difficult question or section.
