Free IMAGE sites-- UP your slides and docs game!

There are high quality pictures that can be used in school projects without any licensing concerns. These can include images that are released under creative commons, are in the public domain, or simply are copyright-free. Of course depending on the license, it may still be necessary to cite where the image came from to provide proper attribution (and it can be a good practice to do even if not required). Enjoy wow-ing your audience!
