

Thomas Jefferson's Monticello

Today, you have some time to explore the online exhibitions hosted on the Monticello website. There are some phenomenal exhibitions on Jefferson's life at the plantation, his political and presidential legacy, important events of Jefferson's administration like the trade embargo and the Lewis and Clark expedition, and the paradox of Jefferson owning slaves while simultaneously proclaiming that "all men are created equal."

Select a topic that interests you, and spend some time exploring the exhibits. At the end of the period, please turn in a paragraph where you explain which topic you chose to investigate, why it was something that was interesting to you, and what you learned from the exhibit. In addition, explain how this exhibit connects with an idea or theme that we have explored throughout the past unit.