The Guy She Was Interested In Wasn't a Guy At All (8/10) The art is incredible and the story is really cute. Like this one a lot. One of my favorites.

Tiger & Hummingbird (5/10) This is barely a yuri, but I still like it just as a general slice-of-life. I wish they would give us literally anything though XD

Accept My Fist of Love! (7/10) Outside of my obvious bias for delinquent girl characters, this one is very cute. I wish it wasn't such an uneventful slow burn, but out of the slow-burn romances I think this one is my favorite. Also, the "I am a Gorilla" scene is so fucking funny.

Off Time (7/10) Short, but cute

Lonely Wolf, Lonely Sheep (8/10) This one surprised me. I didn't think I'd like it as much as I did. It's short but good.

Hello Melancholic! (6/10) I like the idea of it and the main girl is really endearing. Kind of reminds me of Legoshi. The story kind of drags on though and not much happens.

Bloom Into You (8/10) Fantastic. This is the most popular title on the list for good reason. It even has an anime. Also, Aro rep with the main girl.

5 Seconds Before a Witch Falls in Love (7/10) Cute! Good art! Very short!

Kiss It Goodbye (9/10) I love this one! It's short, sweet, and very cute! Probably my favorite SFW yuri on this list.

Suzuhara is a Demon! (8/10) This one is ongoing and still pretty early in the story, but I really enjoy this one. Characters are very fun and sometimes the art goes unbelievably crazy. A lot of mystery as well.

Whisper Me a Love Song

Shiroi Heya no Futari

SUGGESTED NSFW CONTENT (No Nudity/Nudity is heavily censored. This usually consists of IMPLIED moments or MENTIONS of sexual situations. I've included titles here even if it's a very minor part of the comic.)

My Lesbian Experience with Loneliness (10/10) Love this one. The only manga on this list that isn't a romance. It's a memoir based on the author's life.

After Hours (6/10) The art is fantastic and I like some aspects of the story. It feels a little lacking though, I'm not sure why. The story doesn't really go anywhere.

Still Sick (10/10) LOVE this one. Feels very grounded and it's quite cute. Highly recommend it. One of my personal favorites. Miwa is a worm.

Mr. Right Turned Out To Be A Younger Woman (4/10) Very shojo-ey. It's very work-place orientated, which isn't really my thing. Pretty forgettable.

Ring My Bell (9/10) Really enjoy this one. The characters are great and I love a lot of the plot beats. Just enough drama to keep you engaged and want to read more.

Citrus (3/10) This was the first yuri I ever watched/read in middle school. Would be okay if it wasn't for all the SA :/ Speaking of SA, yeah, it's pretty bad. Also, they're step-sisters. And in high-school. Yuck. Can't give it more than 3 for that reason. Idk why this one got an anime adaptation.

How Do We Relationship? (10/10) My favorite on this list. Love everything about this one. Good art, good characters, good story. It even made me cry. If you read anything on here, read this one.

Throw Away the Suit Together (Warning, Extra content DOES contain explicit NSFW, however the main content does not) (10/10) This one is fantastic. It's very cute, does a really good job at furthering the plot, tackles some pretty deep issues without delving into the dark, melodramatic territory, and has great art. One of my favorites.

Ayaka is in love with Hiriko! 9/10 Same author as Black and White: Tough Love at the Office, and I have to say, I MUCH prefer this work over the other one. This one is cute, funny, pretty consistently well-written, and I like Sal Jiangs' art style a lot. I always prefer yuri that feels a little more 'mature' in terms of the setting and characters, and this is a good example of that. It feels grounded and never gets too melodramatic with it. It even has some great commentary on homophobia and the perception of LGBT issues in a conservative workplace. I will say that I'm not SUPER into the age-gap stuff, but it rarely comes up and they're both adults so it's not too bad.

Convienent Semi-Friend

NSFW CONTENT (Includes nudity or heavy sexual content. All characters are confirmed to be above 18. No questions asked.)

Asumi-Chan Is Interested in Lesbian Brothels! (7/10) For an explicitly horny manga, this is actually pretty good. I like the story a lot, the characters are endearing, and the sex parts are actually pretty well-done and very diverse. It's very sex-positive which I appreciate. This is definitely *just* porn though, so DLDR.

Murcielago (1/10) I don't like this one at all. It's gross and guro-y. I could only get through one chapter before stopping. Only good part is the art. Don't read this one.

Does It Count If You Lose Your Virginity to an Android? (5/10) Pretty cute for an explicitly horny manga. I don't have much to say about this one though, to be honest. Want good yuri porn? Here you go, I guess.

Tankobu (7/10) I think I'm just biased because the characters are good and there's an angry girl in it. I love the art and it's very fun. A bit short though, you can tell it was supposed to be just a small one-shot.

Black and White: Tough Love at the Office (4/10) The art is great and I like the edgy vibe. The story sort of sucks though and I don't care about the characters. A lot of people like this one, but I think it's overrated imo. And I *LIKE* enemies to lovers!!

I Love You So Much I Hate You (5/10) It's okay. It's a cheating plot though so if you're not into that, I'd skip.

Tightrope (4/10) I just really don't like the art style tbh. It really takes me out of it, and usually I can look past that stuff. It just feels a little janky. I do like some parts of it though, and the sex scene is pretty realistic which is hard to find in these kinds of comics.

I Cant Believe I Slept With You! (8/10) *I actually really like this one. It seems questionable at first but it ends up really cute and wholesome. I think it's my favorite of the *explicitly horny* yuri with the typical cute anime girls, which I'm not usually a fan of. I even read this one twice because I liked it so much.*

Love Thy Neighbor (8/10) *This one is currently ongoing. This is definitely more in the 'darker' side of the yuri genre, however I really appreciate how it never goes *too* far like a lot of darker yuri tends to go. This one gets pretty explicit in the horny department later on, however I think the sex scenes are very well-done. They do a good job at developing the characters even during the horny moments, which surprised me. I really enjoy this one.*

On a Leash (9/10) Ok, so this one is very tailored to me so I might be biased, but I really like this one. Only reason why it's not a 10/10 is because the beginning is VERY iffy, especially in regards to how consensual some scenes are. I almost stopped reading in the first volume because I thought it was going to be full of SA, however, it never reached the point where it got there, and the rest of the comic made up for it ten-fold. Characters are great. Plot is great. It really ended hooking me. Just as long as you don't mind hate sex.

No Love Lost Lady (9/10) Wow. Just wow. This really tricked me into thinking it was gonna be a normal horny comic with pretty good art. Nope. It's a psychological horror. A damn good one too. I really enjoy the story. The characters legitimately unnerve me, and the sex parts are kind of just there to keep the horny readers engaged so they can keep telling their cool story about trauma. Very good.

Opium (8/10) This one is a period piece. I do quite like it. Currently reading.

Program Me (6/10) It's not bad. It starts off kind of weird and horny, but it ends up being an alright read. I think the only real merit to this one is the BDSM content because it's handled pretty well compared to other comics, but I wouldn't say it breaks any ground. The characters don't really have much nuance to them either imo.
