

Early Career Workshop: Embarking on a Successful Career and Navigating Pre-Tenure Challenges

Co-Chairs: Luca Cian (University of Virginia), Nailya Ordabayeva (Dartmouth College), and Alison Xu (University of Minnesota)

This workshop is designed for scholars who are at the pre-tenure stages of their academic career. The workshop will offer insights on how to navigate pre-tenure challenges and set up your early career for long-term success and impact. The workshop will consist of two panel discussions and break-out sessions.

2:00-2:55pm Panel 1: A panel of mid-career scholars who will share their perspectives on a variety of important issues such as managing a career in early years and the tenure process.

Tonya Bradford (University of California – Irvine)
Keisha Cutright (Duke University)
Anastasia Ghosh (University of Arizona)
Peggy Liu (University of Pittsburgh)
Brent McFerran (Simon Fraser University)
Neeru Paharia (Georgetown University)
Steven Spiller (University of California – Los Angeles)
Meng Zhu (Johns Hopkins University)

3:00-3:55pm Panel 2: A panel of senior scholars who will share their perspectives on big-picture issues such as sustaining a career over many years.

Pierre Chandon (INSEAD)
Darren Dahl (University of British Columbia)
Cait Lambertson (University of Pennsylvania)
Angela Lee (Northwestern University)
Laura Peracchio (University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee)
Bernd Schmitt (Columbia University)
Norbert Schwarz (University of Southern California)
Maura Scott (Florida State University)

4:00-5:00pm Breakout sessions: Attendees will participate in two breakout sessions, each involving personalized discussions with scholars from both panels. Refreshments will be provided during the workshop.
