ABSTRACT

The abstract text should be fully justified as this paragraph is, and it should stand alone, meaning that no citation should be attached. Additionally, it should provide concise information to the readers regarding the purpose, methods, findings, and value of the manuscript. Furthermore, the abstract should be reasonably nontechnical, yet adequately clear for an informed reader to understand the manuscript's contribution. The abstract should only be typed in a single paragraph and single-column format and consist of 200-250 words.

(11pt, single line spacing, 1 paragraph).

Keywords should not consist of more than five words or phrases (11pt)

INTRODUCTION (Palatino Linotype, bold, 12)

This section contains the background of the research, the gap between the idealized and the actual, the purpose of the research, supported by the theory and the latest research/journal article relating to the problem, and the value of renewal from the research. Overall, the manuscript is around 6,000-7,000 words in bookman old style size 11 pts. Manuscripts are written in English.

METHODS (Palatino Linotype, bold, 12)

This section contains the design of the research was conducted. The method section must be written short, solid, clear, but sufficient. This section explained that the use of research methods, implementation procedures, tools, materials or instruments must be well explained, but not in theory. If deemed necessary, there is an attachment regarding the instrument grid or fragments of material used. If there are statistical formulas that are used as part of the method, the formula that is commonly used does not need to be written. For example, there are specific provisions stipulated by researchers in order to collect and analyze data described in this part of the method.

RESULT AND DISCUSSIONS (Palatino Linotype, bold, 12)

This section is the answer to the research question, contains the results of the study, testing instruments and hypotheses (if any), analysis and discussion. The discussion must be enriched by referring to the results of previous studies that have been published in scientific journals. If the section is too long and it is deemed necessary to give a new title, the subtitles can be made, with the format:

Referrals are more recommended not in the form of direct quotes or do not contain too many direct quotes. However, if there is a direct quote that is less than 40 words, it must be written in a paragraph (not separated) and given quotes ("...").

If a direct quote contains 40 words or more, it is written in blocks (separate from paragraphs), protrudes by half an inch from the edge, without quotation marks and follows the name, year, page in parentheses (name, year: page).

Writing references (citations) must use the mendeley reference management application (<https://www.mendeley.com>), Endnote (<https://endnote.com>), or Zotero (<https://www.zotero.org>). (Creswell, 2014) (Clark, 2015) (Atkinson, 2004).

The results section and discussion can contain forms of presenting information including tables, drawings, graphics, photographs and diagrams. Tables, graphics, or images may not be too long, too large, or too much. Authors should use variations in the presentation of tables, graphs, or verbal descriptions. The tables and graphs presented must be referenced in the text. The way of writing the table is shown in Table 1. The table does not contain vertical lines (upright) and horizontal lines (flat) are only in the head and tail of the table. The font size of the table and image entries may be reduced.

For Abbreviations and acronyms, it is necessary to give an abbreviation for the first writing in the text and for the next writing, the abbreviation can be written directly. Avoid using abbreviations or acronyms in the title of the script. (bookman old style, 12)

CONCLUSION

This section presents the conclusions of the results of the study and if necessary can add implications, limitations and suggestions. Conclusions are not summaries, but present the substance of meaning. Conclusions also need to explain knowledge gaps that have been filled in by research, and also feedback on research findings with the theory used. Written in only one paragraph.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS (BOOKMAN OLD STYLE, 12, BOLD)

This section contains gratitude to sponsors, funding donors, resource persons, or parties who play an important role in conducting research. (Georgia, 12)

REFERENCES (bookman old style, 12, Bold)

All bibliography is written using the American Psychological Association (APA) style and is sorted alphabetic. The reference sources used in writing articles come from primary sources (70% of the total reference).
