What is Languages For All?

Languages For All is an organisation that enriches the A-level and GCSE learning experiences for the country's top linguists. We bring together language students from different schools in a local area to share experiences that make language learning more relevant and help improve your results.

How will the activities benefit my future?

Languages Open Minds: Studying another language gives you new perspectives on the world. Learning about other cultures will help you get more out of travel, meet new people, and understand the world better.

Languages Open Doors: Studying an A-level in a foreign language is a highly desirable skill that proves to future employers that you are a good communicator and a hard worker. Languages For All will introduce you to people using languages in a range of different careers. Employers are currently desperate for linguists across a range of careers including:

- International business and finance
- Academia, research and cultural institutions
- International development and politics
- Education and the arts
- Tourism and travel industries
- Diplomacy, government and intelligence

Where will we go abroad?

This depends on what languages you study. Languages For All will fundraise to make sure the trip is affordable for you and your school. The visits will be packed full of activities to practice and use your languages.

What do I need to do next?

- Pick a language to study at A-level that is offered by your Sixth Form.
- Talk to your teachers about the Languages For All Year 12 programme running in 2024.
- Explain the benefits of languages to your families and how it could help your future.
