

Lauren Beane Bio

Short:

Lauren Beane is a highly-acclaimed TEDx and Top 50 Female Speaker that helps audiences take the leap and believe they are ready enough by offering tools and her personal stories so they can embrace and own their unique talents. Too often, she would not take action on her goals unless she felt that she had all the answers. But in 2020, Lauren grew tired of waiting until she felt ready to pursue new opportunities. After taking a huge leap and launching the consulting business of her dreams, she is now on a mission to empower others to feel they are ready enough (even with only 50% of the answers) and live out the life they deserve.

Long:

Lauren Beane is a highly-acclaimed TEDx and Top 50 Female speaker that helps audiences take the leap and believe they are ready enough by offering tools and her personal stories so they can embrace and own their unique talents.

From an early age, Lauren has always been a visionary and natural entrepreneur. She fearlessly pursued various ventures, from designing flyers for her dog walking services at 12 to having her lemonade stand featured on the local news. She didn't let uncertainty hold her back. Instead, she took action, learned as she went, and turned her dreams into reality.

As she entered the corporate world, Lauren noticed her dreams taking a backseat. She believed she needed all the answers, a detailed plan, and every qualification before pursuing her ideas. She hesitated, missed out on opportunities, and doubted her ability to start her dream business.

In March 2020, everything changed for Lauren. Tired of waiting for the perfect moment, she took a bold leap of faith and launched the consulting and speaking business of her dreams. Now, she is on a mission to empower others to believe they are ready enough, even with limited knowledge, in order to live the life they deserve.

Lauren firmly believes waiting for the perfect moment is a misconception. Her mission is to empower individuals with confidence, knowing their dreams are within reach. With Lauren's passion and determination, she inspires others to unlock their potential and discover extraordinary possibilities by believing they are ready enough.
