DAY 4: JOZANI & DOLPHIN

Have an early breakfast and depart for Jozani Forest. In Jozani Forest there are many different kinds of plants and animals. The plants include special trees like mahogany and eucalyptus as well as plants that can be used for medicine. One of the most important things about the forest is the variety of life it has. It is home to a special kind of monkey called the Zanzibar red Colobus monkey which is in danger of disappearing. These monkeys are only found in the Zanzibar area making them unique to this place. The forest is like a home for them and it is famous for having a lot of different plants and animals living together. After visiting Jozani Forest, you will continue with a tour to the coastal area for a dolphin-watching trip. You will get on a boat and head out to the sea where you might see different types of dolphins including the Indo-Pacific humpback dolphin. The clear greenish waters of Zanzibar's coast provide a great place to see these beautiful sea animals in their natural home. Guides who know a lot about dolphins will share information about how they behave and their conservation status.
