

Burger King Mad Lib from Fabulosos:

I went to Burger King and ordered a (adjective) Whopper with (adjective) fries and a (adjective) drink. As I was waiting, I noticed the (noun) behind the counter was acting (adverb). Suddenly, the (noun) burst through the doors and started (verb) around the restaurant! The other customers were (adjective) and started (verb) for the exits. But I knew I had to (verb) the situation, so I grabbed my (adjective) burger and used it as a distraction to (verb) the (noun). Eventually, the police arrived and took the (noun) away in handcuffs. As I left, I couldn't help but feel (adjective) about the whole experience.