This agreement is established to facilitate the widest possible circulation of scholarly works published in Journal of Usuluddin (JUD), while simultaneously protecting the legitimate interests of both the author(s) and the journal in accordance with recognised open-access publishing standards. By conferring upon Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) a non-exclusive, perpetual, and irrevocable licence to publish the article, the author(s) expressly authorise the journal to disseminate the work in a consistent, ethical, and professionally governed manner.

1. The author declares that they are the sole and lawful holder of the copyright in the article, and that ownership of the copyright remains vested in the author(s). Where the article is jointly authored, the author affirms that all co-authors have reviewed and consented to the terms and conditions of this Agreement.
2. Upon formal acceptance of the article for publication, the author grants Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) a perpetual and non-exclusive licence to publish, reproduce, distribute, communicate to the public, and archive the article, in whole or in part, across all existing and future formats and media, including but not limited to print and electronic platforms. The author further grants the journal the right of first publication.
3. All articles published in Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) are distributed under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) licence. This licence authorises unrestricted use, sharing, modification, and reproduction in any medium, including commercial applications, provided that proper attribution is accorded to the author(s) and that Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) is clearly identified as the original venue of publication.
4. The author represents and warrants that:
 - a. The article constitutes an original scholarly work and has not been previously published, in whole or in part, nor is it currently under consideration by any other publication outlet.
 - b. The article contains no material that is unlawful, defamatory, offensive, or otherwise in violation of applicable laws, and does not infringe upon the intellectual property or other rights of any third party.
5. The editor of Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) retains the right to implement editorial amendments deemed necessary to enhance clarity, consistency, stylistic quality, or compliance with publication standards. Any material or substantive alterations shall be referred to the author for approval prior to final publication.
6. Where the article includes copyrighted material owned by third parties, the author confirms that all requisite written permissions have been duly obtained and shall be submitted to Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) upon request.
7. The author agrees to indemnify and hold harmless Journal of Usuluddin (JUD), including its editors and representatives, against any claims, losses, damages, or expenses (including reasonable legal costs) arising from a breach of this agreement or from any unlawful content contained within the article.
8. Any subsequent reuse, redistribution, or reproduction of the article must clearly acknowledge the author(s) and cite Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) as the original source of publication, in full compliance with the terms of the CC BY 4.0 licence.
9. This agreement shall become effective upon execution by the author and shall remain valid and enforceable for the full duration of the applicable copyright term.
10. The author confirms that all co-authors have been duly informed of and have agreed to the provisions of this agreement. Execution or formal ratification by all author(s) is required. Where authors are affiliated with different institutions, separate signed copies may be submitted; however, all signatures must be original and properly authenticated.

I acknowledge that any copies reproduced under the terms outlined above will include the original Journal of Usuluddin (JUD) copyright notice. I also confirm that all co-authors have been informed of and agree to these terms.
