Supplement Description for manuscript

Content that contains English language should be translated into Thai as much as possible. If there are specific meanings in informational texts that cannot be translated or has no clear meaning, it can be transliterated and use common words to descript. Abbreviations, a shortened or contracted form of a word or phrase, author(s) must specify the whole first. Numbers shown in statistical analysis use no more 4 decimal points in whole article.

For examples: 0.0, 0.00, 0.000, 0.0000 (in case of .0, .00, .000, .0000, use 0.0, 0.00, 0.000, 0.0000).

Citations of author names and publication years embedded in the article text should follow the Name-Year system (APA 7th edition). Not allow to use "as cited in" and/or "cited in" for the citation. Interviews in-text citation is only allowed and must be limited to the article text. References to articles and research works should not exceed a 5-year timeframe. Websites can only be cited for statistical reports from reliable databases with accurate and accessible information.

Tables presenting in the article, sort sequentially, and place the table description aligned to the left. Each table must include a bilingual title and caption, presented in both Thai and English.
