I have the right to retain screenshots of the commission conversation as a protective system in the case of slanderous remarks. By contacting me, you automatically agree to my terms of service and will be held accountable should you break them. Penalties include: cancellations, the potential of no refund, blacklisting, and an artist's beware post. The refusal of refunds is only applicable if the commission experience is incredibly deplorable due to your behaviour. Understand that I am a human first, and artist second. I have the right to refuse to work with anyone who talks down to me, treats me poorly, makes me uncomfortable, or sexualises or objectifies me. If I choose to take a penalising action, I will send a courtesy message explaining what led to the cancellation and any other action. As a protective measure I will screenshot evidence and the courtesy message to justify slander.
