SD-24 Postcards for Virginia Instructions

MEET THE CANDIDATE: SENATOR MONTY MASON

Senator Monty Mason is a proud husband and father, a dedicated public servant, and a passionate advocate for students, seniors, and veterans. As our Senator, Monty has a track record of delivering results on the issues that matter to us most—like cutting costs for working families, investing in our education system, protecting reproductive rights, and fighting for gun violence reform. Since being elected to serve in the State Senate, Monty has passed over 90 bills that have been signed into law, making him one of the most effective members of the General Assembly.

A proud Virginian and graduate of William and Mary, Monty lives in Williamsburg with his wife Pamela—who works at the College of William and Mary—and their two daughters, Taylor Anne and Hawley.

SENATE DISTRICT 24

The newly drawn 24th Senate District covers York County, Williamsburg, Poquoson, and parts of Newport News and James City County. The Virginia Public Access Project \(VPAP\) has rated this race as +1.2 R and it is considered one of the most competitive races in Virginia. Youngkin won this seat by 3.4 points in 2021, while Democrat Mark Herring won it by 3.4 points in 2017, making Senate District 24 a crucial seat for Democrats to protect in November.

MONTY'S OPPONENT

Our opponent is Republican J.D. “Danny” Diggs, a former York County Sheriff and radical anti-choice Republican. He has vowed to support a new ban on abortion in Virginia, and he could be the deciding vote in the State Senate to roll back reproductive freedom and women’s right to make their own medical decisions. Diggs also supports putting medical providers in jail for providing lifesaving reproductive health care services.
