

No one knows why The Oscars are called The Oscars

A CT scan of an 11th-12th century statue of Buddha has revealed the mummified body of a monk inside.

Looking forward to travelling to Wimbledon this Saturday. Underground. Overground. Milton Jones

In 2010, the US military built a supercomputer out of 1760 Play Station 3s.

A library is thought in cold storage. - HERBERT SAMUEL (1870-1963)

New research shows that alcohol is 114 times more deadly than marijuana.

Inventor Christian Poincheval has produced the Pilule Pet (fart pill) so that your flatulence can smell of roses, chocolate or ginger.

For 14 years during the Napoleonic wars, the capital of Portugal was Rio de Janeiro.

If you looked at the Milky Way from above, our sun would be between the third and fourth arms in a cloud of stars known as the Local Fluff.

WD40's website boasts that police once used WD40 to remove a naked burglar from an air conditioning vent

In 1953, the New York town of Neversink sank; it was flooded to make way for a reservoir

David Tennant urinates in his back garden to deter foxes

A cat's brain can store 1,000 times more data than an iPad

English slang for condom is 'French letter'; French slang for condom is 'capote anglaise' (English hood)

"People don't alter history any more than birds alter the sky, they just make brief patterns in it"
#TerryPratchett Terry died today RIP

DON'T THINK OF IT AS DYING, said Death. JUST THINK OF IT AS LEAVING EARLY TO AVOID THE RUSH. – TERRY PRATCHETT (1948-2015)

In the 18th century, Kit-Kats were mutton pies

In WWII a pig called King Neptune toured Illinois wearing silver earrings & a gold crown; he raised $19 million for the war effort