

-The Fast Food Wars have been raging for years, and finally the frontline has whittled down to Wendy's and Burger King. You, Wendy's last General on the battlefield, have just been stabbed by your second in command, who was secretly a spy for Burger King-

[Cough] How- How DARE you?! Such underhanded tactics are unbecoming of a man of your stature, or at least I would think that if you weren't working for that beefy despot. Was this your grand plan all along? Or were you persuaded somewhere along the way? Your answer won't change much, but it will help me better inform my men should I survive this vain attempt on my life [More coughing] Ah, more than vain I feel. You've hit surprisingly true. Heh... The onion ring king has grown so desperate as to attempt infiltration.... Well, he may have cost Wendy one of her strongest Generals. But he will lose a spy in the process, [fight begins]