

Global events influencing funding and policy for women, children, and adolescent health

Here are some key global events that significantly influence funding and policy decisions for women, children, and adolescent health. These events bring together policymakers, researchers, healthcare providers, and advocates to discuss critical issues and develop strategies for improvement. Please note that specific event dates and details may vary year to year.

United Nations Events

- United Nations General Assembly (UNGA):
 - The United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) is the main decision-making, policymaking and representative organ of the United Nations. UNGA provides a platform for all Member States to discuss and address global issues, including those related to women, children, and adolescent health. It also plays an important role in setting international agendas, adopting resolutions, and mobilizing political will to improve the health and well-being of populations worldwide.
