3. Log in with Google

 Sign in with Google

4. Select a Database or use the PowerSearch

5. Enter Search terms (use keywords, not entire question)

Ex: Bay Area Homeless v.

San Francisco housing crisis

Are my terms specific? Too limiting?

Boolean search terms: AND, OR, NOT

Ex. Homelessness NOT tiny home

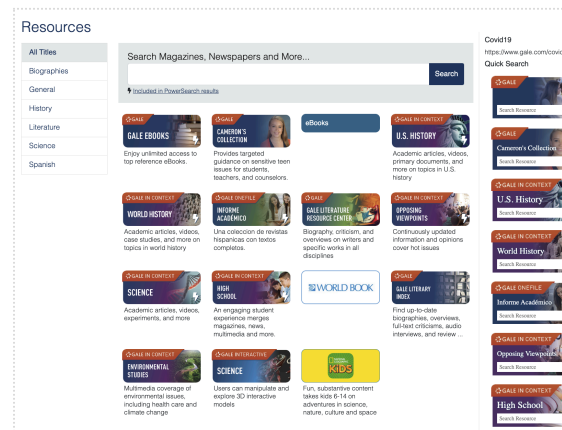

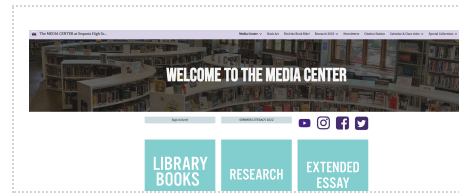

6. When you find articles you might use to support background knowledge, highlight passages and add notes. Do this for at least 2 sources

7. After you have found ____ articles, click "Highlights & Notes" and then "View all highlights and Notes"

8. In the upper right-hand corner, click "Send to:"

9. Select Google Drive.

10. Click back on your waffle to see that the document is there. On that document, repeat this process with sources from JSTOR, and one citation using Google Citation Generator. Rename your Google doc per teacher instructions above and share it with your teacher, or turn it in as directed.

Interview With My Relative

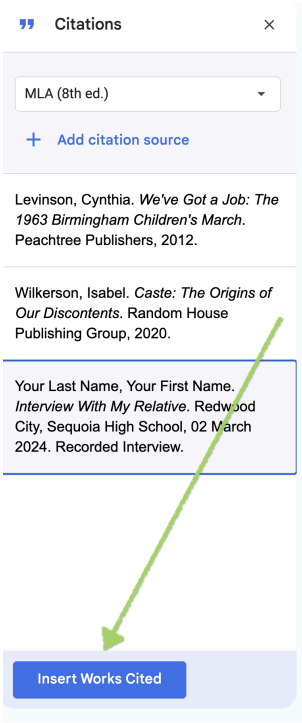

Description

How can I cite a podcast? Pick Miscellaneous and fill in the information.

Not only is Taylor Swift the biggest music artist of our generation by nearly every metric (it's not even close), with the re-recording of her original albums she's in the process of reshaping the entire music industry in a way no band or artist ever has before. And oh yeah — she's still only thirty-two. We dive into the incredible business story behind perhaps the most Black-owned music company in the world.

JUNIORS/SENIORS:

How many of these questions can you answer?

What's the new requirement in a citation according to IB since 2022?

True or false: I need to pay for citation generators.

Name three different ways I can generate citations without having to write them on my own (or pay for them)

I know how to cite primary source information that doesn't exist online.

Can somebody summarize the rationale for why we don't wait until the end to do our citations?

What is OPCVL? SIFT? CRAAP?

True or false. I won't need any of this information after high school.
