Overcoming Barriers to Education for Girls in Yemen

Despite the ongoing crisis, EU-funded programmes have helped over 15,000 girls return to school, breaking generational cycles of poverty. Education is not only a right but also a powerful tool to "Break the Silence. End the Violence" and foster lasting change in Yemen. For many girls, education represents hope, resilience, and a brighter future amidst instability.

These initiatives have created safe spaces for learning, provided essential resources, and fostered community support for girls' education. One key to the success of these programmes has been local engagement. By working with community leaders, teachers, and parents, the EU has helped transform societal attitudes towards the value of girls' education. This collective approach has ensured that learning is prioritised, even during the most challenging times.

The EU's support extends beyond the classroom—it includes psychosocial aid, school supplies, and teacher training, all essential for sustaining education in times of crisis. Through these efforts, girls in Yemen are not just returning to school—they are thriving, breaking down barriers, and building a foundation for peace and empowerment. Let us continue to stand together, break the silence, and end the violence, ensuring that every girl has the opportunity to learn, grow, and lead.
