

Quick message:

Hey Gs, I'm struggling to crawl at some positive replies.

I feel that maybe it's because the email is too much they may feel sold a more personal body.

I'm all ears to any ideas that could help, and grateful for all considerations!

Outreach idea 1

<Given name> your post on <Niche> made me realize <specific benefit>. You're a magician to your followers!

After cuddling with the IG algorithm for months,

I've nailed it down how you can make your <Niche> posts appear in more feeds.

And I believe that I could hyper-personalize it to your brand to consistently glue scroll-hungry thumbs.

I do not want to spam you with emails you haven't agreed to, so if you're interested, reply promptly I can send it over to you.

Are you open to receiving it in a small Google Doc?

<Given name> your post on <Niche> made me realize, you're a magician to your followers the way you <benefit>! 👍

I've nailed down how you can make your <Niche> posts appear in more feeds, after cuddling with the IG algorithm for months,

I think of it as a consistent spellcaster to glue scroll-hungry thumbs.

Would you like to discuss this further in a call this week?

Redo

Your posts are great, but there is competition in your <niche> like <competitor> - who're maximizing their posts with a tweak.

I've been trying to nail down the formula for the highest IG engagement for months.

Then I found this exact small change that makes a difference in grabbing attention.

Your post on <content> stood out to me in my algorithm, so I decided to reach out and offer you more conversions.

And I'd love to share this with you as a free gift to stop those scroll-happy thumbs in their tracks.

Hey <Given Name>

Quick suggestion for grabbing the algorithm by the neck, and pausing those scroll-happy thumbs in their tracks! 🙌

<compliment>, so I decided to reach out to you to help build on this.

P.S. I want to make sure that you want to receive the emails first. I won't send documents out to people that don't want them. So if you want them, make your voice heard.
