

Out and About with the Barbies

Grocery Shopping

Living the life as a famous celebrity in the UCC has its perks. To become a member of this exclusive club you not only have to prove that you are a famous celebrity but you also have to be able to fight in Caged Combat. Sometimes even in bikinis or other skimpy attire.

This is not the easiest task for many of its current members. Models, actresses, athletes, singers, and TV and Internet personalities make up a majority of the participants and all have to split their time between the two. Most of the women don't need the money made from fighting and are willing to risk life and limb for the love of the sport.

As one would imagine, it is hard for these women to be seen in public and many believe that they live the life of luxury and have servants or assistants do their everyday tasks. Kylie Jenner had been receiving a lot of bad press lately. Many of the Badass Barbie fans were accusing them of becoming Diva's and living like Royalty in their gated communities.

While stepping out in public can lead to a mob of fans with requests for selfies and autographs, Kylie wanted to assure the Barbie faithful that her fighters lived the same boring everyday lives as they did and common everyday chores such as shopping for groceries was well within their means.

She hired some photographers from her publicity agency to follow the Barbie's around to prove that they were just normal everyday people who can do the same mundane tasks just like the rest of their followers. Kylie hopes that once everyone sees these action shots of her fighters out in public that they will see them for who they are and respect their privacy. She also hopes that they will start treating them like they were their neighbors.

Kylie thought of using social media to post the photos but decided that the best venue would be TKO magazine. She felt that TKO would not only get the message to their fans but she wouldn't have to deal with all the trolls.

When she received the photos, Kylie was pleased that not only were the Barbies capable of doing their own everyday tasks but they were able to do it without all the paparazzi and fanfare. She was also glad to see that for the most part, the Barbies looked the part and few were caught out in public wearing sweatpants or some other ghastly attire.

Shopping for Chanel, Prada, or Saint Laurent on the Upper East Side or on the Sunset Strip is in all of the Barbies' DNA but shopping for Groceries among the commoners can be a challenge. Kylie was surprised to see that some Barbies even used coupons to get discounts. This was something new to Kylie and she feels that it will take off and soon everyone will be using this new phenomenon.

While on assignment, the photographers were able to catch other Stable members shopping for groceries proving once and for all that living the life of a UCC Celebrity isn't all that different from living a normal life.

When shopping for groceries you must always look your best. One never knows when the Paparazzi will be around the corner waiting to catch you in an unflattering pose. Dove Cameron always makes sure she has her makeup perfect and she is dressed for the part.

Shailene Woodley takes a different approach. She feels that it's more important to feel comfortable especially when she's on a mega shopping spree at Costco.

Bella Thorne prefers to be herself when out amongst her fans. Sometimes that even means wearing her favorite Pink Flamingo slippers.

Vanessa Hudgens agrees that shopping in slippers is more comfortable. She is also a smart shopper reading labels and comparing prices before making a purchase. Even if it means reading the label on a bag of ice.

Eating healthy is important for vegans like Kristen Stewart. Kristen enjoys fresh organic vegetables and only buys enough food to last her a few days.

When your favorite item goes on sale it's almost impossible to pass it up. Olivia Holt puts Ketchup on just about everything and when she saw that it was on sale, she couldn't stop herself and bought a 3 months supply.

Shopping for groceries can be confusing with so many varieties and sizes. Lists are also confusing and it's always dangerous to be constantly looking at your phone. Kylie Jenner prefers to write the important items on her hand so that way she won't forget anything.

Shopping alone can also be a boring experience and it's always better when you can bring along a friend or sibling. Even though Kylie and Kendall are sisters, they still practice proper social distancing.

Picking the perfect tomato isn't an easy task. Hayden's Powergirls Jessica Alba only picks vine ripened plump, heavy tomatoes that are free of bruises, blemishes, or deep cracks.

Wild child Cara Delevingne never passes up a chance to party with friends. Even if it means sharing a bottle of wine with Strikeforce's Rihanna and Jugg-Inator Joan Smalls while doing her weekly shopping.

Miley Cyrus never passes up a chance to have some fun while shopping. Riding shopping carts can be a blast but crashing into a display can get you banned from your favorite store.

Playing with shopping carts isn't always confined to within the stores. Taylor Swift prefers to horse around in the parking lot.

Sometimes it's impossible not to sample the merchandise. Selena Gomez sucks on a popsicle while nobody is watching.

Taking your own groceries out to your car can go a long way in making you feel like a normal person. Julianne Hough enjoys unpacking her groceries especially on a warm sunny day.

Lucy Hale refuses to use the drive up and takes her groceries out to her car even though she occasionally forgets where she parked.

Madison Beer loves her pets and even goes shopping for her own pet food. Buying in bulk not only saves money but it lessens your green footprint by making less trips.

It's considered rude to just leave your cart by your car. Ashley Tisdale always brings hers back to the cart coral and puts it neatly in place.

Nothing is more annoying than when two shopping carts get stuck together. Awesome Aries Sophia Bush struggled but eventually pried the two apart and was finally able to shop at her favorite store.

Pyes Gorgeous Grappler Blake Lively found out the hard way that shopping without a cart isn't always the best idea.

Not every Barbie buys a cart full at a time. Nina Dobrev makes many trips to the store and only buys what she needs. Even if she does buy the worst flavored water ever sold.

With the nationwide shortage of toilet paper on everyone's mind, Queens of the Cage Eugenie Brouhard makes sure she's stocked up

Hayden's Powergirls Diana Agron never leaves home without her environmentally friendly reusable grocery bags.

It takes years of practice to become good at packing a shopping cart. Awesome Aries Hilary Duff utilizes every inch of her cart allowing her to make fewer trips to her car.

Occasionally a trip to the grocery store can mean getting some alone time. Pyes Gorgeous Grappler Britney Spears takes a break to catch up on the latest rumors and gossip about herself.

Strikeforce's Angelina Jolie relaxes while grocery shopping. She always relishes some alone time away from the kids.

Hellfire Girls Club Jennifer Connelly takes a break from a busy day of shopping to take a ride on a mechanical pony.

The Barbies hope that these photos prove that they are down to earth women who aren't above doing everyday common chores. Dove, Taylor, Vanessa, and Ashley hope to see everyone when they are out and about shopping for groceries

