

Hey Marni,

I was looking for a good dating coach as I have not long broken up with my partner and came across your page.

I like your video where you speak about how one of your latest students was approaching women and how you decided how he was doing it was not as good as it should be. touching on more exciting topics to speak to women about is much more interesting and gets their attention. Your giving information for free and I think your subscribers appreciate that.

I was looking into your site a bit and noticed one bit of copy that really caught my attention...

There is a gap in the market where your "Approach blueprint" could really hit the mark and you could be using your Instagram page as a more targeted way of selling this.

Instagram is all about lifestyle and your dating blueprint sits in there nicely with the type of product and by framing it in a "real-life mastery" way could really boost your sales.

Its only A small idea I have as I'm only looking at your business as an outsider looking in and I'm still unsure if we would be a good fit for each other.

I would be happy to speak further if this is something you would be interested in over a call .

I have added A few targeted captions with this email for your approval use them as you wish.

Unlock the secrets to dating women program.

Master the art of texting women in the targeted way.

Make your date night unforgettable with " the Approach Blueprint"program

Regards Richard