Background

Dove Corin was born on January 30, 1988, in Midgar's Sector 6, in a modest home shared by her parents, Alaric and Sakura Corin.

Alaric, a high-ranking SOLDIER 1st Class tactical adviser, met Sakura, a field medic, when he was wounded during a mission. As she tended to his injuries, a bond formed between them. Love soon followed, and when Sakura discovered she was pregnant, they married immediately.

Tragedy struck when Sakura died from complications during childbirth. In a desperate moment, Alaric delivered his daughter himself, becoming the first to hold her. Barely eighteen years old, he was left to raise Dove on his own. Despite his youth, he proved to be a devoted and protective father, balancing his SOLDIER duties with raising her.

When Dove was sixteen, Alaric was killed during a devastating battle. Orphaned, she went to live with her grandmother, Pennilyn Drex, in the slums of Midgar. Pennilyn, though aging and ill, became her anchor and continued to train Dove in the mystical art developed by the Drex bloodline.

From the age of three, Dove displayed extraordinary magical potential. Her grandparents trained her in the Drex family's unique system of magic — a blend of elemental sorcery and summoning spells bound to ancient spirits. Each spirit corresponds to a specific element or emotion, and balance is required to wield them safely. Dove's magic is strong, but her power has not yet reached its full maturity. Overuse can physically drain her, often leading to exhaustion or fainting.

Now caring for her ailing grandmother, Dove dreams of joining AVALANCHE to make a difference in the world. She has no desire to become a SOLDIER like her father, preferring instead to use her abilities to help others. Though skilled in combat, Dove avoids violence whenever possible, choosing defense and precision over aggression.
