- Cure the Smile Fruit's effects on his victims
- Cure the White Lead Poisoning

CHILDHOOD. Born into the country of Flevance, Law was the eldest son of the Trafalgar family, who specialized in the medical field. For a good portion of his childhood, he and his younger sister were taught the start of medical knowledge, which bolstered his intelligence in various other subjects in his schooling. At such a young age, he was already aware of the disease that plagued their country, yet still held onto the hope that his parents would create a cure to end the cruel fate of those who suffered from the White Lead Syndrome. However, an all out massacre occurred, leaving his family and his friends killed by execution squad or by fire. Having lost everything and forced to hide among corpses to escape alive, Law suffers a mental break from it all. He loses all hope and desires for any sort of future, thus becoming determined to take as much of the world down before the illness kills him.

DONQUIXOTE FAMILY. Accepted into the Donquixote Pirates, Law is trained under several of the members in order to hold a standing chance in any fight. Despite his illness, he was able to improve his strength, endurance, and speed. During this time, he also meets the strange Corazon, Doflamingo's brother, Rocinante. Upon being heard by Rocinante about his middle initial, he discovers the true nature and goal of Rocinante. Eventually, he was forced onto a different boat with the corazon, with the intention to find a doctor to help cure Law before the disease took his life. Doctor after doctor, he was repulsed by each and every one of them due to the misinformation about the level of contagion White Lead Syndrome had. As the months passed, Law's condition worsened, with the white splotches on his face growing along with intense fatigue and muscle pain. When almost all hope was lost, Doflamingo had contacted Rocinante about the location of the Ope Ope No Mi, a devil fruit that could cure Law's illness through extraction. It was then a plan was made to get to the devil fruit before the Donquixote Pirates could dock their ship.

OPE OPE NO MI. The Corazon had sacrificed their health and safety to steal the devil fruit and forced Law to consume the Ope Ope No Mi. With Law now obtaining these powers, and a dying Corazon, he begged the nearest marine he could find to save Corazon... only to find out the man he found was working for the Donquixote Pirates, a man named Vergo, the former Corazon to Doflamingo's crew. Barely escaping, Rosinante had hidden Law away in a chest, hoping that Law would find a moment to escape after encountering his brother. Law was blind to what occurred due to being stuck in the chest, and could only assume that the gunshot fired was the one that killed Rosinante. While silently sobbing, thanks to Rosinante's fruit abilities, he manages to escape and get away from the pirates once and for all. Shortly thereafter, he was able to cure himself of the poisoning and found himself on Swallows Island, meeting the future members of the Heart Pirates.

HEART PIRATES. Following the manga/anime story line, two years after the Straw Hats were missing, the band of pirates voyage once again. After their visit to Fishman Island, they find themselves at Punk Hazard, meeting extreme temperature climates and a dark secret lying in wait there....

LOCATION. ???

■ SUMMARY. Rescued by the Marines with a barely alive Rocinante, Law is brought back to the Marine Headquarters under their protection. He is taken care of by the doctors there and is able to be fully cured from the Amber Lead Syndrome. Staying with Rocinante, Law joins the Marines in hopes of understanding how the World Government thinks and get his hands on any sensitive information to use in the future. For now, he is currently a certified doctor that hardly anyone looks forward to being taken care of by. While his bedside manners could use some work, he still is one of the greatest doctors and surgeons to be on the side of the Marines, thanks to his proficient medical knowledge and devil fruit powers.

AGE. 26
OCCUPATION. Back Alley Doctor/Radianite Researcher
AFFILIATION. ???
LOCATION. Alpha Earth

SUMMARY. From the Alpha Earth, Law was one of the many humans that had gained superpowers from the radianite's radiation. He was given the ability to alter reality to an extent within a certain proximity. Utilizing this newfound power with his profound medical expertise, he works as a back alley surgeon for those who can't afford it through normal means (or perhaps can't afford to abide by certain regulations hospitals may have to report suspicious injuries). In addition, and for the right price, he has been offering special surgeries to infuse humans with radianite to guarantee the receiver obtains some sort of superpower. Those come few and far between, due to the extent of his research of the matter is ever-growing. He is not alone in his operations (pun intended), for he is the leader of the Hearts, a group that ensures their privacy from law enforcement stays that way and keeps their cunning leader safe from harm.
