Background

Casimir is a Viscount and the last of the Talon family line. Casimir was born in the Gothic-Victorian ages, around the late 1700s his parents died due to the (now extinct or lesser know of) werewolves from a war. He ended up dragged his parents bodies back to the manor in which he lived at and buried them in the graveyard. His parents once owned a blood trading company but since they've died the company went dry as did the manor. Casimir ended up raising himself. The manor is nestled within the deep woods, most people think that it's abandoned. The only things he takes care of is the graveyard, his parent's bedroom & his study. He grew up heavily religious and after parents died he spend most of his dead studying The Bible. He grew to hate society as it grew over the years, hated people outside of societal norms. He's not one to come to terms with other people when it comes more so towards sexuality, seeing as he is internally homophobic. Though, it's hard to break that barrier for him.
