

[Timothy Bobert]: Good morning Vooperia! I am your host, Timothy Bobert here with today's news. We have Mac N. Cheese coming straight from the Senate chamber to fill us in.

Politics

[Mac N. Cheese]

Mod elections have started as of last night. Be sure to get your vote in by 7 pm EST. According to live results provided by our great government, the competitors rank as such:

1. Trucc
2. Byte
3. Jam_Bam
4. CSI
5. Tyco
6. Stormwarrior
7. Tep
8. Jazzer

In other news, the Reformation party, led by Senator SillyPossibility, posted their official endorsement on February 15th. They endorsed Candidate Bytestorm, who is currently in second place.

President SpikeViper announced a few days ago that there may be multiple candidates chosen from the poll results. When we asked Senator xBomber for details, he teased that it is possible that the top candidates will become mod and the rest trial mod. However, this is not confirmed. Ex-Candidate Jack1Rules was removed from the election after committing high voter fraud. Details to come after the break.

[Ads

Ad from Silly; Minecraft with my Cous 2 when?
#VoteForByte Campaign Ad

]

Ex-Candidate Jack1rules committed voter fraud a few days ago, posting an election poll to his personal server and pinging everyone, telling them to vote for him specifically. Now, this may not seem to bad at first, but here's an example to better understand what this means:

Let's say Spookvooper and Jack's personal server were two different cities. Jack goes and takes an election booth for some position in Spookvooper, takes it to his city, and tell people to vote for him. The issue is you can't expect the people in his city to know what's going on in spookvooper. It's true maybe they do but we can't assume that. Then by saying specifically who to vote for people in his city who don't know any better will vote for him, not knowing any of the other candidates' positions or policies.

Another ordeal currently going on is the #Dabgate scandal. Several officials and citizens alike are claiming that Trucc's votes are illegitimate, since a staff advertised for trucc on the election ballot. The ad has been removed, but they claim that the damage has been done. Trucc currently has a whopping 102 votes, the next person being Bytestorm with 82; a huge 20 vote gap between them. In my opinion, which I'm not supposed to have, the #Dabgate scandal has a valid point, but I wouldn't say that Trucc's votes are completely illegitimate. One of #Dabgate supporters' arguments is that Trucc had a much lower ranking on the opinion polls than in the official elections as compared to the runner-up.

EPTO, who everyone thought had collapsed and faded from existence, now has been found to have no oxygen. This has resulted in an abundance of memes from the community which we will hopefully get to see over the next few SWS's. The leader of EPTO, u/MaybehYT, is desperately trying to dismiss these claims. However, it doesn't seem to be working, potentially due to their lack of air.

[Timothy Bobert]: laughtracc.mp3

[Mac N. Cheese]

Moving on, we have another short-lived revolution, this time led by RedstoneFox. He started the rebellion soon after Humania was crushed, and immediately invited everyone from Spookvooper to join. This obviously let in a lot of spies, whose identities are classified for obvious reasons. What we do know from these spies, however, is that there are many connections with the VDR in this new rebellion.

The VDR is a community which has been described by Senator SillyPossibility as a hub for "spik vipr bad" conspiracy theories. Their conspiracies range from a number of issues, but we do not currently know what exactly those are as of yet.

The new rebellion had no name other than "Vooperian Revolution," which goes to show just how creative these rebellious citizens are.

It is a very exciting time in Vooperian Politics, these are the first mod elections to be held in decades, and I personally hope to see more of this kind from the Vooperian Government in the future.

[Timothy Bobert] Thank you, Harlow. Indeed it is a very exciting time for Vooperian Politics. Many things are happening, possibly due to the influx of new members and subscribers we've been seeing lately. The discord has been very active as of late, with the new members talking and engaging with the community. Some might even say that it's almost like SpikeViper had planned the mod elections to match the influx of new people.

Weather

And now over to Flud Wasser for Traffic and Weather.

[Flud Wasser]

Thank you.

Today we are expecting Heavy Rains and Flooding in some areas late in the day. Keep your eye out for flood warnings in the area.

I-95 is closed due to a freak accident where a self-driving helicopter prototype crashed directly into a EPTO freedom rally, killing hundreds and injuring many more. We have received no comment from the government yet whether or not this had anything to do with the protest itself. Normal traffic on the other major highways, except for heavy traffic on Route 45 caused by a caravan of exceptionally slow Truccs.

Expect more showers throughout the week, except for Sunday, which will be Partly cloudy with a 27% chance of rain.

Over to you Tim.

[Timothy Bobert] Thank you Flud. Hopefully, we can get one sunny day this week, I know I don't want to be driving through the rain. Another reminder to check your area's flood warnings and to stay safe. We have a special guest this morning, CEO WillyPossibility is here with us today to fill us in on the stocks. Hi Wamuel!

Economy

[Willy] Hi! The stock market closed yesterday with many new investors and companies established. The economy has been a bit weird after Vooperia took Earth, the stock market was there but never really used. However, in the past week many investors are looking to revitalize the stock market and get it going again. I have to say I feel partially responsible since a lot of this started when my Dad, who nearly died recently, began selling shares from our company at my suggestion.

The stock exchange is much more active now than in recent years, with many other companies following suit and selling shares. Some are suggesting setting up an automated system for keeping track of the stocks, and I know Senator xBomber, who has been watching the situation, is definitely interested.

[Timothy Bobert] Thank you for your time today, Willy, I know you're very busy these days.

RETURN OF THE KING

Next up, THE KING RETURNS, more information, after the break

[ads

Propaganda - EPTO has no air or something like that Milk buckets Inc. 120k milk buckets event

]

King Money returned to Vooperia last Saturday, which resulted in almost immediate calls for him to retake his position of King. Most notably Senator SillyPossibility has been calling for the return of Money to the throne. Now I'm not supposed to give my opinion
BUT

I believe Money should be given the throne, but more so in a symbolic way, much like Old 21st Century England. This seems to be the popular opinion so far. Some of our sources have said SpikeViper himself believes this is the right course of action, but we have not confirmed that.

What do you think of today's news? Give us a call and let us know. If you aren't watching this live like a good vooperian, leave us a message at 120-VOP-NEWS and let us know.