

Ignite Your Marketing Success: Captivate and Convert Your Audience!

Hey Jack, I was scrolling down the Instagram when I stumbled upon your page and I have to say you look amazing, if I was in need of a coach I would come to you. I see you don't have an email list link in your bio. If you wonder what is email list, here it is in short. When someone joins email list that I create specifically for you I send them about 3 emails per week (not too much but not too little). Through the emails I send them I make a connection with them, writing about you, how your coaching can help them, motivation and other stuff. So my goal is to make a connection between me and people that joined email list (your followers), after that I write about benefits of you being their personal coach with the link of your coaching site at the bottom of the message, that will make their decision to buy your course easier. If you are interested in something like this give me a quick response so we can talk more into it.

Greetings from Serbia, have a nice rest of your day