

Our motto, "Knowledge in Everything," is the guiding principle behind everything we do at Universal Vidya. Made by students for students, Universal Vidya is an educational platform built on empowering students and putting them in the drivers' seats of their educational exploration. We believe that Education is not solely confined to what we learn in the classroom, but also includes the life-skills and talents that we all need to thrive in the 21st century, such as learning how to file taxes and communication skills like conflict management in teams. We seek to inspire and amplify this kind of educational exploration, where life-time learning gives us the power to transform our lives and careers. With access to our free online platform, our students from around the globe will be able to do just that.

Universal Vidya Course Credit

1. Students will need to submit a report with their work experience (daily journal) and evaluation.
 2. Students need to keep track and prove the number of hours worked. They must remember to get credit for hours from employers.
 3. To receive credit, students may need to do other reports or documentation that their college may require.
 4. Throughout the process, if students need something from the employer, they will need to request, convey, and/or share regarding the work that employer needs to do. Ex. - note to professor or college, recommendation, etc...
- ★ For all the reports or documentation, remember to type or write in readable font and understandable writing (grammar, spelling, and punctuation).
 - ★ Students should contact and communicate between college and employer.
 - ★ The credit hours differ for each college, depending on the number of hours worked, you will receive the credit hours (1-6 credit hours). "For example, at the University of Connecticut, students must intern 300 hours throughout the semester to receive one college credit." Citation:
