BSA Conference at Allendale Columbia School

Thursday, April 30, Allendale Columbia's Black Student Union welcomed 174 students from twelve local schools for the 5th Annual Black Student Alliance Conference. This meaningful gathering brought together Black high school students from across Monroe County to celebrate the impact of Black Student Unions and to strengthen connections within the greater Rochester community.

Guided by this year's theme, Rest is Resistance, the day offered space for reflection, dialogue, and joy. Students participated in engaging workshops led by peers from AC, Aquinas, and Harley, and the event concluded with the always-anticipated lip sync battle. Fully organized and funded by BSU students, the conference stands as a powerful example of student leadership, initiative, and the importance of building community and belonging.

ABOUT ALLENDALE COLUMBIA

At Allendale Columbia, we prepare students for the world they will inherit. In our trusting and responsive environment, students in nursery through grade 12 grow in confidence and develop scholastic independence. Together, our students and teachers imagine, design, and create in order to make a positive impact locally and globally.
