VI. Gap	-filling

- 1. Banking is similar to industry (1) ...inthat it makes a profit by selling; The difference is that a bank sells services, or "products" rather (2) ...than actual physical goods. A bank conducts its business (3) ...byoffering a comprehensive range of financial products to the public in order to(4) ...attractdeposits. As we have seen earlier, the larger a bank's deposit base, (5) ...themore money it is able to lend, and through this (6) ...lending a bank earns its profit. It is evident therefore, that the range of products that a bank offers their (7) ...customerswill have a vital impact (8) ...onthe size of a bank's deposit base, and therefore on its lending. Of equal importance is the manner in (9) ... whichthese products and the bank itself are presented (10) ...tothe public and this in turn is represented by the quality of bank services.
- 2. An overdraft facility is an agreement by (1) ...which....a customer is allowed to withdraw money in excess (2) ...ofthe available credit balance, up to an agreed (3) ...limit This facility is available only (4) ...on a current account. An overdraft facility (5) ...allowstraders and people in business the flexibility of paying for goods or services immediately (6) ...beforereceiving payment from their own buyers. Overdraft facilities are reviewed at regular intervals, for example, (7) ...say six months. The bank only extends such a facility subject to the condition that repayment of the debt will be made by the customer(8) ...on ...demand.
- 3. Leasing is a contractual arrangement (1) ...whereby... one party, in return (2) ...for an agreed rent, uses a capital asset owned (3) ...byanother party Such leased assets (4) ...areusually plant and equipment but may include other assets such as aircraft, ships, containers and oil rigs.

Occasions arise where a company (5) ...needsto buy capital plant and equipment but is (6) ...unableto do so even on installments basis. This may be because the company is short (7) ...ofcash, and the position would get worse with the additional purchase of fixed assets; or perhaps the plant carries a high obsolescence risk.

Such a company might consider (8) ...leasingthe plant or machinery it requires. To do this the company approaches a leasing company which will (9) ...buythe goods from the manufacturer. The manufacturer gets paid (10) ...in full by the leasing company, usually after installation at the hirer's premises.

VII. Reading:

1. Reading one:

Individuals and groups of people doing business as a partnership, have unlimited liability for debts, unless they form a limited company. If the business does badly and can not pay its debts, any creditor can have it declare bankrupt. The unsuccessful business people have to sell nearly all their possessions in order to pay their debts. That is why most people doing business form limited companies. A limited company is a legal entity separate from its owners, and it is liable for the amount of capital that has been invested in it. If a limited company goes bankrupt, it is wound up and its assets are liquidated (i.e sold) to pay the debts. If the assets don't cover the liabilities or the debts, they remain unpaid. The creditors simply do not get all their money back.

A successful, growing company can apply to a stock exchange to become a public limited company (GB) or a listed company (US). Newer and smaller companies usually join "over-the-counter "markets, such as Unlisted securities Market in London or Nasdaq in NewYork. Very successful businesses can apply to be quoted or listed (i.e. to have their shares traded.) on major stock exchanges. Publicly quoted companies have to fulfill a large number of requirements, including sending their shareholders an independently-audited report every year, containing the year's trading results and a statement of their financial position.

The act of issuing shares (GB) or stocks (US) for the first time is known as floating a company (making a flotation). Companies generally use an investment bank to underwrite the issue, i.e. to guarantee to purchase all the securities at an agreed price on a certain day, if they can not be sold to the public. Companies wishing to raise more money to expansion can sometimes issue new shares, which are normally offered first to existing shareholders at less than their market price.

A. Gap-filling:

The rapid development of factoring in recent years has proved its importance to all parties involved, especially to the suppliers who have to supply goods on credit because of the tough (1) ...competition ..., an inevitability in the free market.

Factoring enables the supplier to (2) ...raise ... money from the unpaid invoices, solving the (3) ...shortage ...of capital for their further production.

Another advantage is that they don't have to employ extra staff to collect payments from their customers and pay interest on the money used by their customers. Moreover, the suppliers can take advantage of factoring services to (4) ...regulate ...their cash flow position, that is to avoid the negative cash flow position by agreeing with a factoring company (usually a bank) the date when they pay money for the unpaid invoices. The suppliers can, then, use this money to (5) ...settle ... some fixed payments such as salary and wage payments to employees, business taxes, insurance premium and other fixed debts.

However, the factor would provide factoring services for the (6) ...supplier ...only if they were able to (7) ...assess ... the risk of the customers given credits. They need to assess the debtors' credit status and credit worthiness before they decide to purchase the supplier's account receivable. The information on credit rating is (8) ...hard ... to come by in Vietnam at present. The credit bureaus of banks are not (9) ...modern ... enough and do not have the (10) ...sufficient ... credit information on necessary customers. It's the main reason why the Vietnamese banks have not provided factoring services yet.

B. Answer the questions:

1. How many advantages of factoring to the suppliers are there according to the text? What are they?

They are:

- enables the supplier to raise money from the unpaid invoices, solving the shortage of capital for their further production
- the suppliers don't have to employ extra staff to collect payments from their customers and pay interest on the money used by their customers
- the suppliers can take advantage of factoring services to regulate their cash flow position, that is to avoid the negative cash flow position
 - 2. How can the suppliers use factoring to regulate their cash flow position?

 By agreeing with a factoring company the date when they pay money for the unpaid invoices. The suppliers can, then, use this money to settle some fixed payments
 - 3. When does a factoring service become feasible (= khå thi)?
 When they were able to assess the buyer's credit status and credit worthiness before they decide to purchase the supplier's account receivable

4. Why is factoring not available in Vietnam?

Because the information on credit rating is hard to come by in Vietnam at present and the credit bureaus of banks are not modern enough and do not have the sufficient credit information on necessary customers

VIII. Translate these paragraphs:

1. Payment in advance is undoubtedly the safest way for an exporter to secure settlement but buyers are seldom prepared to pay for goods in advance of shipment, other than for small consignments. The payment is generally made by the buyer through his bank by means of a draft or by international money transfer or express international money transfer in favour of the exporter.

Thanh toán ứng trước chắc chắn là cách an toàn nhất cho một nhà xuất khẩu để bảo đảm sự thanh toán nhưng những người mua hàng hiếm khi mong muốn trả tiền trước cho hàng hoá trong việc giao nhận hàng, thường chỉ là sự ký nhận một khoản tiền nhỏ. Việc thanh toán nói chung được thực hiện bởi người mua thông qua ngân hàng của anh ta bằng công cụ là 1 tờ hối phiếu hoặc chuyển tiền quốc tế hoặc chuyển tiền quốc tế tốc hành cho nhà xuất khẩu.

2. With L/C, beside the advantage of a credit to the exporter, who knows that he will receive payment provided he complies with its terms, there are benefits to the buyer. He knows that payment will only be made by the advising bank when the exact documents specified have been received – as these are the documents of title, then once they are in the hands of the paying bank, it will only be a matter of time before they are sent to him, allowing him to collect the goods. There is, however, a risk to the issuing bank because the credit only deals with documents and not in goods, so that provided the exporter complies with the terms and conditions of the credit, he will be paid even though the crates supposedly containing the goods have been packed with sawdust and old newspapers.

Với thư tín dụng, bên cạnh ưu điểm của tín dụng cho nhà xuất khấu, những người biết rằng anh ta sẽ nhận được khoản thanh toán theo như các điều khoản ghi trong thư tín dụng, đó là các lợi ích tới người mua. Anh ta (nhà xuất khẩu) biết việc thanh toán sẽ chỉ được thực hiện bởi ngân hàng tư vấn khi những chứng từ chính xác được chỉ rõ đã được nhận – theo như những chứng thư sở hữu, sau đó các chứng từ này sẽ được chuyển tới ngân hàng thanh toán, nó chỉ còn là vấn đề thời gian trước khi chúng được gửi tới nhà xuất khẩu, cho phép anh ta nhận hàng hóa. Tuy nhiên, có 1 rủi ro tới ngân hàng phát hành bởi thư tín dụng chỉ kèm bộ chứng từ và không kèm hàng hoá, do vậy khi cấp cho nhà xuất khẩu theo như điều khoản và điều kiện trong thư tín dụng, anh ta (nhà xuất khẩu) sẽ được trả tiền dù những toa hàng theo giả thiết chứa đựng hàng hóa chỉ là mùn cưa và những tờ báo cũ đi chăng nữa.

⇒ Khiếp, đoạn này dịch khó thế ©

3. Documentary letters of credit may be of two types: revocable or irrevocable. A revocable credit gives no undertaking to the exporter that payment will actually be made or a bill of exchange accepted because it may be cancelled or amended at any time up to presentation of the documents without the prior knowledge of the exporter. An irrevocable credit does not suffer from this disadvantage and consequently is almost invariably specified in contracts: under such a credit, the issuing bank gives its irrevocable undertaking to make the payment if all the terms of the credit are met, and can only amend or cancel the credit with the consent of all parties.

Thư tín dụng kèm chứng từ có thể có 2 loại: huỷ ngang và không thể huỷ ngang. Một bức thư tín dụng huỷ ngang được gửi vô điều kiện tới nhà xuất khẩu thể hiện khoản thanh toán sẽ chắc chắn được thực hiện hoặc 1 tờ hối phiếu đã được chấp nhận bởi nó có thể được huỷ bỏ hoặc điều chỉnh tại bất kỳ lúc nào mà không cần báo trước cho nhà xuất khẩu. Một bức thư tín dụng không thể hủy ngang không có sự bất lợi này và vì vậy gần như không có việc thay đổi các điều khoản đã xác định trong họp đồng: ví dụ việc gửi đi một bức thư tín dụng, ngân hàng phát hành gửi đi cam kết không huỷ bỏ nó để thực hiện thanh toán nếu tất cả các điều khoản trong thư được đồng thuận, và chỉ có thể điều chỉnh hoặc huỷ bỏ thư với sự chấp nhận của tất cả các bên.
