ENFYS - H E A D M A S T E R

A Guardian worthy of praise, Enfys is the patriarch of his Clan and a strong leader. Despite having a rough upbringing and being banished from his previous Clan, Enfys does his best to take care of, and protect, all of the members of his Clan, which he calls his family. Xiaoniao and Pongo are two of his adopted children. He has been the headmaster of the school for five years, and most of the dragons there love him, including the staff.

XIAONIAO

Despite her fierce-looking appearance, Xiaoniao (or "Xi-xi", as her clan calls her) is actually quite socially awkward and shy. She doesn't quite know how to interact with other dragons, and is often flocking to her "brother" Pongo for help. She can be extremely mischievous, and once she takes a liking to you, it's hard to shake her off..

BiteyBit

Ritka looks less like the long elegant arcs of her cousins, and more like several bony limbs stitched onto a noodle. Her questions often get the better of her, and her curious and uncontrollable impulses to investigate and better herself often result in her ending up with more bumps and bruises than necessary. Most would describe her as an irritating hatchling than a charming young dragon.

XxTatsuxX

Jynx is just about as wild as his father, if not more. He does share his father's love for flying through storms as well, but his ultimately favorite activity is pulling pranks on his clanmates. He may come off as rude and uncaring at first, but all the teasing and joking around is all in good fun. He's an extremely loyal member of the clan, and a warm-hearted soul, he just has endless amounts of energy he doesn't know what to do with.

Ragnaroc

The introverted Goth kid is here! Kimichi is quiet, shy and small for a tundra. He loves art and can frequently be found with his sketchbook in hand. Kimichi is fond of music particularly soft music or rock. He's rather reclusive tending to avoid the larger crowds and getting along better with the students than the teachers. He is a diligent student.

Teaches: Treasure Trove, Folklore, and oversees the Familiar's club. Frequently wanders in on a GSA meetings.

June is an extrovert! He very much enjoys and needs people, not constant attention just people. He's quite and polite both at home and outside. He's also respectful and gives space to others when they need it. June will do his best to keep his student happy and requires very little himself. He's just coming off a bad break-up so if he's a little funny at first that's just him adapting. Not to mention he's shy around new people so that's probably not going to help.

Overall he's dork, a lovable, quirky, dork that runs a D&D campaign, reads manga and helps his players with cos-play stitches; a rigorousness culinary artist; the best lair keeper east in the city! And finally he's an excellent friend, willing to drag you out for a good time when you need to forget it all but also willing to sit down, brew some tea and listen to what on your mind.

Teaches: Basic Magics, Advanced Magics and Oversees book club (whats magic without books?)

Proxima is quiet and always seems to be deep in thought about one thing or another. Teaching is one of his great passions and magic is the other, getting the chance to teach eager minds about all things magic was more than a dream come true. He is willing to do anything for his students to excel and often helps tutor those have a rough with his classes. During class, he is strict but fair and hates interruptions because interrupting someone in the middle of an incantation or a spell can have deadly effects.

Even though he is strict in class, Proxima is kind and understanding and loves pulling pranks on the other staff members when class is over for the day. He hosts book club in the library, where his office is as well, and holds magic tutoring there as well. Anyone caught with a book outside without his permission, anyone with fire in the library or using any magic at all will be banned. He takes his books very seriously, but if you get banned you will have the opportunity to have the ban lifted next quarter, if you prove you can treat books with the respect he demands.

Name: Necroa

Teaches: Familiar Taming, oversees Tea club

Buff, brash, and intimidating to boot, Necroa is not your classic teacher. At first, she seems cold and unapproachable. However, she has an easy to notice soft spot for familiars, and can become quite chatty while talking about them. She spends nearly all her free time researching and capturing new familiars to share with her students. What little free time isn't spent learning about familiars is spent learning about different teas, finding new recipes to bring to the club.

Her classroom is filled with scrolls from her travels, covered in notes and intricate drawings of even the rarest of familiars. She doesn't take any excuses for not doing your absolute best in class, but on the bright side, she doesn't hand out much homework. If you join Necroa's class, expect to be intimidated, shocked, and amazed at what you will learn.

phoenixegg (Theater/Drama has been accepted as a club)

This is Eedei! She's sweet, but can get annoyed easily. She tends to go completely non-verbal at times, and when she does, it's best not to make her talk. However, when she is talking, it's hard to shut her up, especially when she's discussing one of her favorite subjects, such as literature.

I haven't done a ton of RP on here before, so if I mess up on the etiquette please be understanding. :-)

kittychat47

Str3ss0rz is a young guardian under the 'tender' care of Kittychat. Ismira arranged for him to come here so he would have someone to learn from that wasn't completely loony. He's very timid and will usually go along with what anyone bigger than him tells him to do. He's only two days old.

Balrier

Kaito is a general pain in the #$. Regularly full of life and excitement for even the most mundane things, he often gets himself caught in the midst of trouble or finds himself in situations he really shouldn't be in. He takes pleasure in being surrounded by friends, although he sometimes seems overly busy due to his constant blur of activity.

Smoke is a Wildcalw that might look pretty imitating, but really he is a big softy when it comes to students.

(did not really feel like putting much effort into the bio)

Leondragon

Jane is rather nit-picky when it comes to grading. Although this shouldn't be confused with being snobbish, but rather she is strongly passionate about her students. She loves teaching and is an enthusiastic chess player/ poet/ historian. Also enjoys Theatre and the arts in general. She may have a stern demeanor, but on the inside is rather kind-hearted and docile. However, do not try her patience, for she has a flame that even Flamecaller should be fearful of. She does not tolerate back-talk, and hates late papers (be warned of her Golden Bantam Fangar who prowls the class room for late work) . But in all, she's rather easy-going as a teacher and is understanding; seriously don't be afraid to ask her a question, she won't bite.

Though her looks may be deceiving, Chaes is actually a very studious dragon. She values knowledge above all other things (except, perhaps, food) but can be quite pretentious and a bit of a know-it-all, which makes her unpopular and disliked by many. She struggles with making friends and allowing herself to open up due to being hurt in the past. However, once you get past her hard, intellectual exterior, it can be revealed she is compassionate and caring. She can be over-excitable and do stupid and thoughtless things, which lead her to trouble, but her perfect grades and proper manner normally pull her out of the doghouse.

Almeta

Almeta is extremely self reserved, rarely showing much expression. She doesn't talk often and prefers to be alone but still longs to share the company of a loyal mate. Although she appears antisocial and only has few friends, she remains loyal to the ones she has, keeping a strong connection. At times, Almeta may seem appear rude or ignorant but deep down she truly cares highly for others.

Almeta is a very intelligent 'straight A student'. She commits highly to her work, devoting most of her life towards her education. The study of history, medicines and magic intrigue her. Surprisingly, Almeta really enjoys spending time of the battlefield to increase her magic skill levels. At first glance, she may not seem amazing on the battlefield, but her quick wit and mental strength make her a tough component to defeat. Studying, reading and expressing her creativity are the three main ways she spends her spare time.

Iris

Iris is inquisitive, intelligent, social, loyal, wise and brave. He cares for others more than himself and wishes to help those in need, standing strongly for what he and others believe in. While grades aren't the most important thing in his life, they're still somewhat above average. Naturally, Iris is a fast, hand-on/visual learner. Yet Iris's main interests lie on the battlefield. He loves the adrenaline and the will to fight for a purpose. He is well-built with quick and strong physical attacks. Overall, Iris is a popular and 'handsome/charming' dragon while still being caring, extremely loyal and open to the opinions of others.
