

Are you interested in birding with a small group without having to travel too far? Discover the “neigh-birds” nearby with your neighbors! Join the Feminist Bird Club Seattle Chapter on May 22nd & 23rd for a weekend of small, neighborhood bird outings.

We will help folks organize an outing in a small group of 5, based on nearest neighborhoods. One person in the group will be the primary neighbird coordinator, who will set up the meeting location and birding plan with the group. There will be mandatory Zoom-based orientation for these neighbird coordinators on Tuesday, May 11th at 6:00pm.

All are welcome and no previous birding experience is necessary - just a love of our feathered friends and feminism!

To participate, fill out this form by Friday, April 30th.

*As we begin to host bird outings again, we want to make sure that we continue to take care of one another. Everyone is required to wear a mask and maintain physical distancing, regardless of vaccine status. We also require that all participants follow our code of conduct.
