John Smith sold cheap shoes. He had a small lorry, and he bought the shoes from the factory and took them from one house to other and tried to sell them to people. He sold a lot of shoes in small villages, because there were not many shops there, and people did not want to go to the town and buy their shoes there.

One day John drove along a street of a village and stopped in front of one of the houses. There was a small boy beside the door. John opened the window and asked, "Is your mother at home, boy?" "Yes, she is," the boy answered. John got out of his lorry, took some shoes from the back and went to the door of the house. He knocked at the door and then waited, but nobody answered the door. John looked at the boy angrily and said, "Your mother is not at home." "She is," answered the boy. "But why hasn't she opened the door?" John asked. "Because this is not my house," the small boy answered.
