Things I need to study: _____

Instructions for Station 8

1. Think about your ancestors. (like your parents and grandparents and their parents and grandparents)
2. Think about what they did.
3. Think about what they had to go through. (Example: my great-great grandparents worked on a railroad long enough to raise enough money to buy some land in Minnesota through the Homestead Act. Then they lived in a mud dugout, and burned anything they could find, included furniture, to stay alive during a frigid winter. They survived poverty, deaths of loved ones, grasshopper plagues, and more to “make it” in a new country.)
4. Think about the qualities they’ve passed on to you.
5. Think about how that might help you achieve success (in the future, standardized tests, etc.)

Things my ancestors have passed on to me:
