

Threat Level: No Threat Codename: Tickle Monster Clearance: L2+
--

Item Number: SCP-999

Object Class: Safe

Anomaly Type: Autonomous Object

Containment Procedures: When authorized by Level-4+ personnel, SCP-999 may freely roam around the facility, otherwise, it is to be kept in a standard containment pen. SCP-999 should be provided with high-sugar consumables, which it also consumes as a form of sustenance. The subject is to be played with when bored, to provide such a thing, all personnel is allowed inside SCP-999's holding area. During events such as containment breaches or site lockdown, SCP-999 is to evacuate into its holding area. SCP-999's containment chamber is recommended as a place to hide if you are unable to evacuate the LCZ during a breach or riot.

Description: SCP-999 appears to be an amorphous entity, seemingly composed of gelatin-like material. It is 20% transparent, weighing about 27 kg (60 lbs), and similar to orange wax. The subject's size is estimated to be approximately 2.7 studs in height, and 2 studs in width; although, the subject appears to be able to change its shape, but will mostly become rounded. SCP-999 are harm-less and have never been observed to be hostile to animals. It seems to be playful, especially with humans. When approached, it will often be hugging the nearest person. If so, the individual will be feeling extremely happy.

Breach Notes: No breach notes were required for SCP-999 due to its harmless nature, although, if encountered outside of its containment pen, you may escort it back to its pen, or leave it in its current location, at your leisure.

Written By: PvT_T

Edited By: Liamike

Last Edit: 2/2/2021

SCPF: SCP INFORMATION GENERAL PAGE