

Connor Degan

I have had the privilege to serve as the Town Clerk in Hopkinton for the past three years. In this time, I have strived to improve the functions of my office, the quality of the town, and the experience of the residents who also call this wonderful community their home. To achieve this, I have adopted four pillars as a method to ensure these goals can be met. These pillars consist of skilled professionalism, engaged community building, fostering civic engagement, and delivering excellent customer service to my fellow residents.

The professionalism of the office continues to improve opportunities for professional growth; just this year I graduated from the New England Municipal Clerks Institute, and I will be eligible for certification later this year upon reelection. To build community, I have worked with local nonprofits and our faith community to ensure that our residents are connected with services as well as joining together to ensure that we all thrive. We have increased civic engagement through voter registration drives, running a mock election in Hopkins School with students, and working closely with groups in town to increase familiarity with local governance. Our customer service is augmented through the wonderful staff that are always eager to assist in anyway that they can, ensuring that the "face of Town Hall" always provides expedient and friendly service to our residents.

I humbly request your vote on May 20th, to show that these values are just as important to you as they are to me.
