One of my favorite AVID strategies is, I like to use Hands Up, Stand Up, Pair Up. I use this activity, or this strategy, with the students because they have a chance to get around, collaborate with other students. And I use it a lot of times with reviewing content in math or in reading. I did it a couple days ago, and we talked about what the Constitution means to me. Okay, I present the question to them, "What does the Constitution mean to me?" And then, I would say, "Okay, boys and girls, stand up, hands up, pair up," and then they have a chance to walk around the room, and then they find someone within 30 seconds. And then after they get with that partner, then they have a chance to talk with them about the question.
