

I know I have sent you some crummy old email's over the years, but this one is my friends pick for the best email for 2012

A little kid, crying, can't find his mother in the supermarket.

The store attendant says 'What does your mother look like?'

The kid says "I have no bloody idea."

