If you want to improve you HAVE TO FAIL

We have all heard the saying

"If you want to learn you have to fail"

It's 100% True

Failure is essential in the learning process

Let me explain

When you first tried to ride a bike

You 100% fell off no matter what.

You didn't watch how to do it and then BOOM your riding a bike

NO

You failed again and again and again

Never for a second thought about quitting

Even then you knew if you never quit eventually you will succeed

Eventually you could ride for about a 30 sec

This is canon in every form of life

I'll give another example

I had a guy text me saying that he wanted to start making money on twitter but

Didn't want to show his face

So he probably wasted months waiting doing nothing

That's the mistake

But went through my twitter course on how to make $100 a day

He realised that he didn't need to show his face

He started to get moving, making changes daily

Soon he made some money

In life you WILL MAKE MISTAKES

BUT you will eventually learn from them

You will soon enough understand why something is going on in your life

We can all get to the top but remember

No Mistakes Only Chances To Learn

DIC - Pure Value - Self Improvement

Here's what you need to do to be the best version of yourself

Whenever you say or think

"I want to become the best version of myself"

Or something similar

You have to remember your words have meaning

If you don't understand let me explain

Your most important keys to getting to the next level in your journey is...

Discipline - Trust within yourself that you will complete the goal you have set backed up on previous experiences were you have kept your word

So when you say dumb sh#t like

“For the next 90 days i'm gonna do x

And then you don't do it

Unless you got in a car crash and lost your legs and now you can't do it

That's a good excuse

But to most of you that hasn't happened has it

You lack discipline

Which means whatever you say don't mean sh#t

Because your not gonna do it

Another reason why this is so important is social status

If you tell someone your going to get a six pack or quit drinking, stop wasting your time playing video games

And then they catch you doing it

You just lost trust your authority

Now everytime you open your mouth and say X They won't support you like they would have if you kept your word

They don't trust you or believe what you say is true

So from now on only say things your gonna do if your actually going to do them

A useful way to do this would be

Making a routine everyday

Setting a list of tasks your aiming to complete

This keeps you in check and not be a feather in the wind of life wasting time

So let's say you complete 12/15 tasks

Don't just think "Ahh it's not that bad

No stop and think why didn't complete every single task on the list was I lazy was I tired

Understanding why you didn't do something will allow you to avoid it and not make the same mistakes - If you remember you learn from mistakes

So from now on don't say things your not gonna do

Keep your word

And be the best version of you

It's not a walk in the park

Nothing of value is

All of these people are making money

KIDS TEENS are making money that's INSANE

There's a 15 Year Old Kid in my course that's making 10K a month

He's 15!

If kids can do it so can you

There's a opportunity on the table

Up to you if you want to leave it

It's your decision
