

Bio:

Nicole Dobson is a certified speech-language pathologist, board certified specialist in child language, teacher of the deaf, Cued Speech/cued language instructor, and special education consultant. She provides direct services, comprehensive assessments, and consultation services to support families, students, and school teams using spoken English, Cued American English, and ASL in early intervention and preschool through high school settings, as well as professional development and training for professionals.