Hey Drew / Paul

That post of the 15329 De Pauw St house looks great. Compared to others, you were more focused on the size.

The thing is most real estate content is overshadowed by entertainment, so engaging people on social media takes a lot of work.

People in top markets like Royal Palms properties implement the use of AI in their email newsletters to improve their engagement and save time

So why not update potential clients and give them some insights?

I made an example using a common subject

You could try it out yourself to get a better understanding.

Be sure to let me know so we can talk further and I'd be happy to send it.
