Abstract: Abstract is written in one paragraph that includes five things: (1) Research purposes, (2) Method, (3); Findings/results, and (4) Conclusion (5) Academic contribution. The author can also write down things that are considered very important in this abstract, while paying attention to the maximum word limit 200-250 words.

Keywords: Contains Special Concepts (3-7 words/ phrases)

1. Introduction (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

The introduction must be written in Roboto Light font, size 10, with 1.15 line spacing, and should include the following key elements: (1) Social facts that describe the actual conditions in society related to the research topic; (2) Social phenomena, which refer to trends or symptoms relevant to the issue being studied; (3) Research gap, which states the existence of a gap in previous research or highlights the novelty that distinguishes this study from earlier ones, either in terms of urgency or uniqueness; and (4) Research contribution, explaining the expected scientific benefits or contributions of the study. The problem addressed must be clearly formulated and demonstrate the need for research in order to find solutions or gain deeper understanding.

2. Method (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

This section explains how the research was conducted. The main content of this section includes: (1) research design; (2) population and sample (research target); (3) data collection techniques and instrument development; and (4) data analysis techniques. For the research, it is necessary to explain the type of approach used, such as the legislative approach, case approach, or sociological approach if relevant. Additionally, the legal sources referenced should be described, including legislation, court decisions, as well as legal literature and expert opinions. In empirical legal research, the presence of the researcher in the field, research subjects such as judges, law enforcement officers, or the community, and informants involved in data collection must also be explained. Data collection methods such as interviews, observation, or document studies should be described, including the location and duration of the research. Finally, the methods for verifying data validity, such as triangulation or source verification, need to be outlined to ensure the research results are scientifically accountable.

3. Result and Discussion (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

The discussion contains theories that assist researchers in analyzing data to make a brief summary or synopsis of the data and relationships and to suggest trying new things or even giving birth to new theories. There are at least three functions of theory that have been agreed upon by scientists, namely:

(a) describing, (b) explaining, and (c) predicting. The Arabic-Latin transliteration refers to the Arabic-Indonesian transliteration according to the 3 Ministerial Decree.

3.1. Sub-Heading of the Discussion (Roboto Light, bold 11pt)

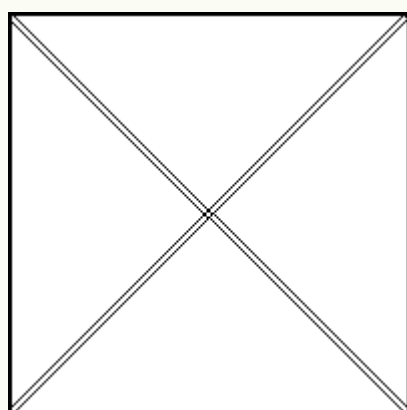

This chapter contains research findings and discussion (can be described in sub-chapters). Write down the findings obtained from the results of research that have been carried out, and they must be supported by adequate data. Research results and findings must be able to answer questions/problems and be in accordance with the research objectives in the introduction. If there is a table, it is written in the following format:

Table 1. This is a table. Tables should be placed in the main text near to the first time they are cited.

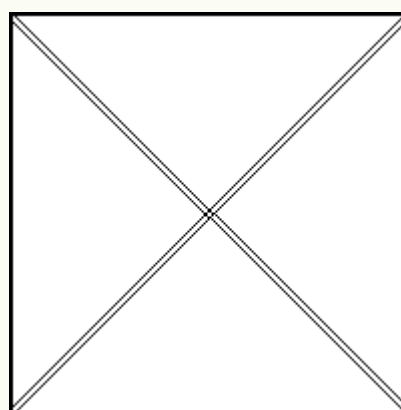

Locations	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2023	2024	2025

All figures and tables should be cited in the main text as Figure 1, Table 1, etc.

(b)

Figure 1. This is a figure; Schemes follow the same formatting. If there are multiple panels, they should be listed as (a) Description of what is contained in the first panel; (b) Description of what is contained in the second panel. Figures should be placed in the main text near to the first time they are cited. A caption on a single line should be centered.

Footnote:

Each time quoting an opinion, the author must give a footnote using Format Chicago Manual of Style 17th Edition (full note). Please use Mendeley or Zotero manager reference app.

Footnote Writing Example:Footnote Number<sup>1</sup>Footnote Number<sup>2</sup>Footnote Number<sup>3</sup>Footnote Number<sup>4</sup>Footnote Number<sup>5</sup>4. Conclusion (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

The closing section is composed in a coherent and clear paragraph form, without using numbers or bullet points, to ensure the reader can easily follow the flow of ideas. This section presents a summary of the main findings of the research that address the problems studied. In addition, it explains the research implications, highlighting the impact or benefits of the findings on the relevant field of study or practice. The closing also emphasizes the contributions of the research, both theoretical and practical, and acknowledges the limitations encountered during the research process. Finally, recommendations are provided as guidance for future research or further development based on the results and findings of the study.

Declarations (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)*Author Contribution Statement (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

Specifies the exact contributions of each author in a narrative form.

Funding Statement (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

The funding agency should be written out in full and include the grant number, which can be included in brackets. The funding agency needs to be listing in the "Organization Name." If there is only one funding agency: This research was supported by the Organization Name [grant number xxxxxx]. If there are multiple agencies or grant numbers, then it should be formatted as such: This research was supported by the Organization Name [grant numbers xxxxxx]; the Organization Name [grant number xxxxxx]; and the Organization Name [grant number xxxxxx]. If there is no funding information, they should state: This research received no specific grant from any funding agency in the public, commercial, or not-for-profit sectors. If an organization providing support that was not monetary (maybe they provided facilities, survey samples, etc.), please mention that that organization supported the research.

Data Availability Statement (Roboto Light, bold, 14pt)

Data availability statements provide a statement about where data supporting the results reported in a published article can be found - including, where applicable, hyperlinks to publicly archived datasets analyzed or generated during the study.
